First Primary on Tuesday

New Hampshire in the Spotlight

Muskie Leads Poll

DURHAM, N. H. (AP) — The campaign for Tuesday's New Hampshire presidential primary moved into the home-stretch with Senators Edmund S. Muskie and George S. McGovern the leading contenders.

Muskie, from neighboring Maine, is favored to lead the field Tuesday, but political analysts will be watching his percentage. Early in the campaign, aides talked of 50 per cent as a minimal goal, but a poll published Sunday by the Boston Globe gave Muskie 42 per cent, McGovern 26 and other Democratic candidates a total of 12 per cent with 20 per cent of the vote undecided.

The Democratic contenders planned a busy last day of campaigning today.

In the Republican primary, President Nixon is expected to win easily over Paul N. McCloskey of California and Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio.

Nixon may also get some Democratic write-in votes—he got 5 per cent of them four years ago.

So will Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, who told several hundred backers in Manchester Sunday he plans to fight actively for the Democratic nomination in other primaries. Backers have conducted a well-financed write-in campaign in New Hampshire for the Arkansas congressman.

Meanwhile a copyrighted poll of almost 1,000 persons planning to vote in the New Hampshire primary shows President Nixon a 5-4 choice over Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Boston Globe said today.

The question asked of those polled by the Becker Research Corp., was "suppose the Democratic candidate for President was Edmund Muskie, the Republican candidate was Richard Nixon and the American Independent Party candidate George Wallace. Then which one would you like to see win?"

Nixon's 49 per cent to Muskie's 38 per cent was gained through a 75 per cent margin among Republicans. Muskie was favored by Democrats 64 per cent to 19 per cent, by Independents 50 per cent to 39 per cent and by those not registered to vote yet 57 per cent to 28 per cent.

Wallace was favored by an overall 4 per cent. His highest rating was among Democrats, who gave him an 11 per cent.

In a separate poll pitting Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., against Nixon and Wallace, Nixon was favored by 52 per cent McGovern got 33 per cent and Wallace 5 per cent, with the rest undecided.

The Globe said the poll was taken as Nixon completed his China trip and it reversed a Jan. 24 poll which showed Muskie leading Nixon 48 per cent to 42 per cent.

Unwilling Debaters

DURHAM, N. H. (UPI) — Cluttered by the participation of three candidates given no chance to win, the first "Great debate" of the 1972 election year Sunday skirted any major controversery among the contenders in the New Hampshire Democratic primary.

At its end, front-running Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine appeared no more eager than before to debate his challengers.

After the 90-minute program on New Hampshire's Educational Television Network which brought together for the first time the five Democratic candidates listed on Tuesday's ballot, Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota pressed for more debates, including some in Florida, to replace the "long range" assaults that have marked the campaign in the Granite State.

But Muskie, who warded off the New Hampshire debate until almost the end—the primary is Tuesday—said he was campaigning in more states than any other candidate and added "debates are not necessarily the best way" to bring the issues before the voters.

Although billed as a debate, the program consisted strictly of questions from a panel and one-minute answers from the candidates, plus opening and closing statements. Joining McGovern and Muskie were Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles and Ned Coll, 32, an anti poverty worker from Connecticut too young to be President.

Twice during the broadcast, McGovern challenged Muskie and other candidates to disclose the contributors to their political campaigns and to give an accounting of their expenses.

In turn, Muskie, as he had before, said that he was the first candidate to make a public disclosure and did so in 1970 when his Presidential campaign barely was underway.

The Maine senator said that he stopped making disclosures because other candidates refused to follow his lead and at that point decided he would withhold the information until a policy was set for all candidates, including President Nixon.

After the program, McGovern charged that Muskie's statements on financial disclosure in 1970 had no relevance to the 1972 Presidential campaign.

On the last day of the campaign, Muskie and McGovern, plus all the other candidates including Republican Reps. Paul McCloskey and John M. Ashbrook, scheduled full days of campaigning before settling down Tuesday to await results from the nation's first primary.

Area Agents...No-Fault Opinions Differ

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON

A survey of agents selling automobile insurance in the Kingston area shows a wide range of opinions on the no-fault insurance plan supported by Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

And diversity of opinion exists within agencies in some cases. Partners Dennis Gilmore and Frank Adams of Kingston are split down the middle, Gilmore supporting no-fault and Adams opposing it.

Gilmore says he favors the no-fault proposal because "It would remove the aggravation of proving who is at fault in an accident." Adams says he is opposed because "It has taken away my right to sue."

"It is also paying the man who is at fault," he said, "and I don't believe the premiums will be reduced as much as they say."

Several agents who expressed support for the plan did so only with the provision that extensive changes be made in the bill introduced into the New York State Legislature by Senator Bernard G. Gordon, chairman of the Joint Legislative Insurance Committee. Most of the suggested changes center around Gordon's exclusion of automobile collision damage from property damage protection.

Lester C. Elmendorf of the Howard R. St. John agency in Kingston said "I'm in favor of no-fault, but I would like to see property damage liability included in the mandatory coverage."

William J. Zacher of Rifton has some reservations about the present no-fault plan.

Special

"Until they come up with something better, I have mixed emotions," he said. "It's going to hurt the poor more than the rich. There is no provision for collision coverage for people in low income groups who can't afford the collision premiums."

He noted that insurance firms were hit with heavy bills in most accident cases. "No matter how it's handled, fault or no-fault, the demands of the public will have to change," he said.

Robert B. Canavan of Kingston thinks no-fault is a good program "but the current plan in the legislature will have to be revamped."

Asked for specific recommendations, he said it was such a big subject that "It would be difficult to make suggestions in a few sentences." He said no-fault would have to be the subject of an extensive study before it is adopted.

Ralph J. Carpino of Kingston supports no-fault because "It would cut out a lot of aggravating inconvenience for customers, bring down premium costs and reduce the backlog of court cases."

John Levy of the Herman J. Eaton agency in Kingston is another supporter of no-fault.

"It is one means of expediting payments to the injured," he said. "in most accidents it is difficult to pin down who's at fault and it takes a long time to get cases tried."

Roland A. Augustine of Kingston recently suggested several alternatives to Senator Gordon's plan, calling for compulsory insurance that would provide benefits up to $50,000 without regard to fault and including vehicles in property damages, thus eliminating optional collision coverage.

Kleindienst Inquiry

Surgeon Faces Subcommittee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cardiac surgeon to lobbyist Dita D. Beard appeared today before the Senate Judiciary Committee inquiry into accusations against acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst.

The panel had been scheduled to resume taking testimony Tuesday on allegations made by columnist Jack Anderson, but committee counsel John H. Holloman III said the inquiry would resume today.

He declined Sunday to explain the reason for the change or who will appear. But it was learned the first to testify at today's hearing would be Dr. Victor L. Liszka, of Arlington, Va., who has been treating Mrs. Beard.

It was Mrs. Beard's memorandum to her boss, the head of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.'s Washington office, that prompted the allegations against Kleindienst, according to Anderson.

The columnist wrote that an antitrust action against ITT was settled in its favor after the conglomerate pledged $400,000 to help finance the Republican National Convention in San Diego in August.

Anderson accused Kleindienst, who was named to succeed John N. Mitchell as head of the Justice Department, of participating in secret meetings with Felix Rohatyn, an ITT director, to settle the case.

Kleindienst, in an appearance before the committee last week, said the Beard memo was false, and said he had taken no part in negotiating the ITT settlement.

Anderson and Mitchell are expected to testify Tuesday.

Dr. Liszka returned to the Washington area Sunday after treating Mrs. Beard, 53, at the Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital in Denver, where she had been located by FBI agents Saturday and served with a subpoena.

Liszka and another physician said in Denver Sunday that Mrs. Beard is seriously ill with a heart ailment, coronary ischemia—a decrease in the blood supply to the heart muscle.

The physicians said Mrs. Beard's condition was improved slightly Sunday, but added it may be more than a week before she will be able to leave the hospital.

Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general had been approved unanimously by the committee and reported to the Senate last week before Anderson made his allegations.

Kleindienst, who served as deputy attorney general the last three years, requested the panel's hearings last week and denied there was any link between the settlement and the ITT pledge, or that he knew of the pledge until the out-of-court agreement was reached.

Mitchell, who resigned as attorney general to become President Nixon's campaign manager, has denied allegations against him. The memo attributed to Mrs. Beard said Mitchell "is definitely helping us, but cannot let it be known."

Several presidential candidates made comments about the case Sunday.

Democratic Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said the incident raised enough questions about the effect of big money on administration policy so that "the American people have a right to be suspicious."

McGovern, who had announced before Anderson's allegations that he would vote against Kleindienst's nomination, spoke on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Reps. Paul McCloskey of California and John Ashbrook of Ohio, who are challenging Nixon for the Republican nomination, expressed reservations about the incident but said it was too early to say whether there was any wrongdoing.

They appeared on separate segments of CBS's "Face the Nation."

In a related development, Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., said the Judiciary Committee also plans to question Kleindienst about a Texas stock case that prompted the resignation of a top Justice Department aide last year.

Gonzalez referred to the case of Houston financier Frank Sharp. The Securities and Exchange Commission accused Sharp—in effect—of giving Texas politicians special loans and stock deals in hopes that would influence banking legislation to his advantage.

Congressional Reapport Plan Goes to Legislature This Week

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A Republican-drawn Congressional reapportionment plan is expected to be submitted this week to the GOP-controlled legislature, with Democratic lawmakers fearing the worst.

The apprehension was understandable, because the congressional reapportionment plan drafted three years ago by Republican architects made radical changes in district lines and placed two incumbents in the same districts.

The plan, drawn to conform to the orders of the U.S. Supreme Court to eliminate disparities between districts, resulted in the loss of one Democratic seat. Democrats now have 26 of the state's 41 congressional seats.

At least four incumbents will be placed in the same district in the new plan, because the state will lose two seats. This was forced by a decline in New York's population in relation to the population in other states.

One of the districts to be eliminated is in Manhattan and Rep. Bella Abzug, an outspoken advocate of women's rights, suspects that it is hers. She and several other Democratic lawmakers have protested.

The other lost seat is expected to come from the Bronx, where Democratic Reps. Jonathan Bingham and James Scheuer may be thrown together.

The legislature's Republican leaders hoped to rush the reapportionment plan through this week. "It's one of those things you have to act on right away," said Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea. "A lot of things—the political calendar, election machinery—are depending on it."

The legislature, which reconvenes this afternoon, also is expected to act this week on a deficiency budget—if Duryea and Gov. Rockefeller can resolve their differences over whether to include funds for the so-called Scott Commission, which is investigating New York City governmental operations.

Rockefeller's original $23.6 million deficiency proposal contained $450,000 for the Scott Commission. Duryea wanted this item out of the budget altogether, but he would ask for $350,000 for the commission in a separate bill.

The deficiency budget, which appropriates funds to cover spending not anticipated when the original budget was passed last year, usually is passed shortly after the beginning of the new legislative session.

After an absence of three weeks because of illnss, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges returns this week to Albany to participate in the negotiations.

He also is expected to promote his proposals to ease restrictions on gambling and to create a loan program that would help a college student to pay his educational bills.

The staffs of Rockefeller and Brydges have been working on a plan to help parochial schools, which may be disclosed this week. Sources said one approach under consideration would allow the payment of state aid for maintenance.

The plan would replace the $33-million secular services program, which was overturned recently by federal courts. This program helped pay for such things as teachers' salaries and textbooks.

DEATH SCENE ILLUMINATED — Searchlights illuminate the scene after a gas explosion destroyed a section of a luxury 10-story apartment building in Barcelona. Twelve bodies have been found and many more were feared killed or trapped in the rubble. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Exploding Ammunition

Three American GIs Killed

SAIGON (UPI)—Three American soldiers were killed today when ammunition they were stacking exploded.

The three, who were not identified, were stacking old ammunition in an enclosed area at Long Binh, the U.S. headquarters in Vietnam, 18 miles from Saigon.

The blast was tremendous, much larger than the normal ammunition for rifles and machineguns would have caused, officers at the base said. They added that an investigation was ordered into the possibility of sabotage, a stray guerrilla mortar round or the chance that land mines or bombs had been improperly stored in the area.

Elsewhere, guerrilla rockets hit the big U.S. Air Base at Cam Ranh Bay an hour before dawn today, slightly injuring one man with shrapnel. It was the first time Cam Ranh Bay had been rocketed since Jan. 16.

The U.S. command reported that Navy planes flew two more "protective reaction" strikes against antiaircraft guns in North Vietnam on Sunday. Results of those strikes were not known.

In South Vietnam's Central Highlands, where North Vietnamese infiltration is reported at its highest in years, allied patrols found sections of a brand-new guerrilla road leading east from the tri-border area of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

South Vietnamese engineers were sent in to blow up sections of the road and felled dense jungle trees with dynamite so the road could be seen from the air.

All told, 116 men were killed or wounded on both sides—includng one American wounded at Cam Ranh Bay—in the 24 hours ended early today.

Military sources also disclosed a new South Vietnamese drive that started Friday against the Communists' key "base area 114" staging area in Quang Tri Province, adjoining the Demilitarized Zone.

They said the 3rd Division began a drive Friday into Base Area 114, a sprawling North Vietnamese supply depot in Quang Tri, the nation's northernmost province. The South Vietnamese troops were dropped by helicopters into the base area in the rugged jungles between Quang Tri and the abandoned U.S. base at Ke Sanh.

The attack is aimed at preventing a North Vietnamese buildup that could lead to an attack in coming months. Allied intelligence officers expect the Communists to launch several attacks in Quang Tri Province this summer, including a possible attack on the city of Quang Tri itself.

Preparatory to such an attack, they would have to stock up supplies in the base area now under attack by the South Vietnamese.

In other action U.S. B52's hit what was believed to be a Communist troop buildup 13 miles east of A Loui near the A Shau Valley, and in the Mekong Delta to the south. Viet Cong guerrillas tried to storm a government camp Sunday near Vi Thanh, 98 miles southwest of Saigon, but were turned back by South Vietnamese forces.

The Communists also floated a mine down the Dong Nai River near Saigon Sunday and the resulting blast set fire to three ammunition barges and one other boat. The explosion was so loud it shattered windows in central Saigon 11 miles away.

Harrisburg Witness Back on Stand

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The star government witness in the Harrisburg Seven trial returned for his second week of testimony today. Six defense attorneys waited their turn to question him in an effort to ruin the credibility of a two-time convict.

Boyd F. Douglas Jr., 31, was in his sixth day of direct examination by the prosecution in its drive to convict the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan and six other antiwar activists of plotting to kidnap Henry A. Kissinger, blow up Washington steam-heat pipes, and vandalize draft boards.

But cross-examination was not far away. Douglas, an assured and outspoken witness so far for the government, has a record of forgery, assault on an FBI agent, and impersonation of an Army officer. He turned FBI informant in 1970 while in federal prison.

Berrigan, also a convict in Lewisburg Penitentiary, trusted Douglas to carry contraband letters to and from him while Douglas was permitted out of prison during the day to attend college classes, the government contends.

Those alleged letters are a prime part of the government case that there was a conspiracy of violence by asserted nonviolent Roman Catholic clerics to focus public attention on their cause.

Douglas testified Friday that Berrigan, who is accused of being the leader of the group, agreed with him during the summer of 1970 that the kidnap of Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser, probably would not be possible without violence and that a gun would be necessary. But, he said, Berrigan wanted the gun loaded with blanks rather than bullets.

Douglas also said that Berrigan ordered that the destruction of the tunnels supplying heat to federal buildings be done with explosions that would injure no one.

At Berrigan's instructions, Douglas testified, The Rev. Joseph Wenderoth, now a defendant, consulted an engineer and reported 'It would cost millions of dollars to rebuild the tunnel system if it was blown up" and that its destruction "would be devastating to Washington."

Wealthy Ulster Landowner Shot to Death

BELFAST (UPI) — Little more than a month ago Marcus McCausland quit his captain's post in Northern Ireland's part-time defense regiment because he "didn't like the way it was being run," friends said today.

The bound, hooded body of McCausland, a Roman Catholic and one of Ulster's wealthiest landowners, was found shot to death Saturday on a snowy country road outside Londonderry.

He died, said the Irish Republican Army (IRA) because he was a spy for the British army—a Catholic who had betrayed his own kind in Northern Ireland's maze of intrigue and sectarian bloodshed.

The politically-oriented "official" IRA wing said Sunday that McCausland, 39, was kidnaped from his home at Dreenagh, 15 miles east of Londonderry, then interrogated for four hours before gunmen pumped two bullets into his head.

"It was established through interrogation that he was actually working for British Intelligence," an IRA statement said.

But friends of McCausland, descendant of one of Northern Ireland's oldest plantation families with an ancestry dating to the 17th Century, said he resigned from the paramilitary Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR) in January.

"He said he didn't like the way it was being run," said one friend, who declined to give his name. "He said he disagreed with too many things—a matter of conscience—to continue."

In another development, a statement in Dublin by the IRA's militant "Provisional" wing blamed Protestant extremists for Saturday's explosion in a packed Belfast restaurant which killed two women and maimed scores of others.

Doctors called the blast at Abercorn's restaurant the "bloodiest, most awful" single act of violence since strife between Ulster's Catholic minority and Protestant majority flared into bloodshed in August, 1969.

"Of course this is the work of the IRA—who else?" a police spokesman said afterwards. Police and troops rounded up 16 IRA suspects in the Belfast area and seized a quantity of arms and ammunition.

The IRA denied responsibility for the blast.

In Pomeroy, 50 miles west of Belfast, civil rights marchers Sunday stoned police and British troops in a twice-foiled attempt to defy a government ban on marches.

Police and troops stopped the estimated 1,000 marchers at a barricade and forced them back into Pomeroy. They had intended to walk seven miles to Carrickmore.

Illegal Aliens Costly to U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Illegal aliens are costing U.S taxpayer $18 billion a year, according to Lee Cremer, president of the National Council of Immigration and Naturalization Service Unions.

The illegal alien problem is a very grave problem and one that most Americans don't easily recognize," Cremer said Sunday in a UPI Washington Window interview.

To curb abuses to welfare and other benefit funds by illegal aliens, the Senate Finance Committee voted last week to issue Social Security Cards to all children at age 6. Rep. Jack McDonald, R-Mich., has called for an investigation of the immigration service.

Some illegal aliens also are heavily involved in narcotics traffic, according to Cremer.

"It's costing the American taxpayer a total ... including welfare benefits to the aliens as well as citizens who are unemployed because of illegal aliens taking their jobs ... probably upwards of $18 billion annually.

There are at least 2 million illegal aliens working in the United States and there could possibly be as high as 5 or 6 million, but 2 million can be statistically proven," he said.

Cremer estimated 10 per cent are involved in criminal activities.

He proposed that the Border Patrol be increased 40 to 50 per cent to cover the 7,000 miles of border, and that criminal investigations be doubled.

Three Hurt on Old Flatbush Road

Several Weekend Highway Mishaps

By WALTER S. CLARK

TOWN OF ULSTER

Three persons were injured, two seriously in a two-car head-on collision that occurred at 7:45 p.m. Saturday on Route 32 at the intersection of Old Flatbush Road in this township. State Police and other authorities reported a rash of other highway accidents over the weekend.

Cars involved in the Saturday night crash were operated by Robert M. Perry, 22, of Route 4, Box 159, Saugerties, and Theodore Warrick, 41, of Route 2, Box 319, Flatbush Road.

Perry was traveling south on the highway when the Warrick car reportedly crossed from the northbound lane into the path of the Perry vehicle prior to the collision. Warrick was cited by Trooper J. H. Ingellis for failure to keep to the right. The summons is returnable before Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

Perry suffered a fractured ankle and multiple lacerations. His wife, Yvonne received a fractured pelvis and lacerations of the right hand. They were taken to Benedictine Hospital. Warrick sustained fractured ribs and lacerations of the face and head, troopers reported.

At 1:30 a.m. today, Ernest G. Perry, 20, of Old Kings Highway, Lake Katrine, was driving north on that road when the vehicle went out of control after skidding while negotiating a curve. The car slid 225 feet, went through a chain link fence and continued on another 60 feet.

Trinda Fisher, 21, of Box 31, Saugerties, a passenger in the vehicle, sustained injuries of the right hip and ribs. She was treated by a local physician.

Perry was cited for driving a car with unsafe tires.

Hurley State Police also investigated a one-car accident that occurred Saturday night in the Montgomery Ward parking lot in the Town of Ulster. Trooper John McMickle reported Garvin L. Russell Jr., 33, of R.D. 1, Box 457, West Hurley, was driving his car when it ran into a snowbank.

Russell was charged with driving while intoxicated after he took a breathalyzer test. His wife, Dawn, 31, sustained a concussion. She was treated at Benedictine Hospital, police reported. Russell is scheduled to appear Tuesday at 7 p.m. before Town Justice Sherwood E. Davis.

Four persons were injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance after the vehicle in which they were riding slid out of control and overturned down an embankment on the State Thruway south of Kingston. The injured were Kiki Doherty, 17, her brother, James, 19, and Borge Parker, 18, all of Pelham Manor, and Gary Demaria, 17, of New York City.

Meanwhile, the sheriff's department investigated two weekend mishaps.

At 2:30 a.m. today, Maryann Wrolsen, 19, of Route 3, Box 211, Saugerties, was driving west on Route 375 near Zena when the vehicle went out of control and traveled about 150 feet into a field. She escaped serious injury, according to Deputies Angel Baez and Joseph Golnek.

The woman was charged with driving while intoxicated, driving at speeds not reasonable and prudent, having an open container of beer in the vehicle and unlicensed operation. Investigation disclosed the woman allegedly took a car owned by Mark Sterber of Box 474, Woodstock, without permission. An additional charge of grand larceny third degree was lodged against her.

Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Richard Alberstadt, she pleaded innocent and was released in her parents' custody pending hearing on Tuesday.

A two-car accident attributed to icy conditions and poor visibility occurred at 5 a.m. Sunday on Route 28 in the Town of Hurley involving vehicles driven by Stephen D. Hubbard, 30, of 1736 Third Avenue, New York City, and Francis Marquette, 42, of 164 Tremper Avenue, Kingston, according to Deputy Sheriff Jerry Keller and Richard Malone.

Hubbard was southbound in driving snow when his car skidded on icy pavement into the path of the northbound vehicle operated by Marquette. Hubbard and Miss Marcia Incas, 27, of Woodstock, were taken by Fatum's Ambulance to Benedictine Hospital for treatment. Marquette also sustained injuries.

Redevelopment Heads Agenda

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Redevelopment heads the list of the Common Council's agenda when it meets Tuesday night in regular session but there are a number of other important items for the aldermen to consider, including busing, the environment and zoning.

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency has asked the Council to set public hearing dates on two redevelopment proposals, one for a million dollar shopping plaza in Broadway East, the other for an ice cream stand near Dietz Stadium.

The proposal for Broadway East is from Hanover Company of Merrick, L. I. Mayor Francis R. Koenig has come out in favor of the proposal but is opposed to a proposal by the Grand Union Company to build a supermarket at Broadway and Orchard Street. A public hearing was held on the topic on Thursday night by the Laws and Rules Committee of the Council. Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) chairman of Laws and Rules Committee, said that his committee has still not made a decision on the rezoning request from Grand Union to build on the site of the former St. Anne's Convent. The Friendly Ice Cream Company seeks to build on Joy's Lane.

There are a number of communications from Mayor Koenig, one recommending that the duties of the Council's Air Pollution Committee be expanded to encompass all environment problems in the city. Koenig suggests that the chairman of that committee, Alderman Edward M. Norton (D-11th Ward), be the city delegate to a meeting of town officials later this month to establish a countywide environmental commission.

Koenig also asks the aldermen to extend his emergency powers in regards to busing for another 60 days or until a permanent arrangement can be worked out. Koenig notes that the city-leased bus now operating has had wide spread acceptance but that in the past six weeks the city has lost about $840 in the operation. Koenig adds that the 25-cent fare will not be sufficient to maintain a breakeven bus service. He does not recommend how high the fare should go.

A communication from the Ulster County Planning Board will be read in regards to the city's updating of its zoning map. The county leaves the decision up to the city. Quick, whose laws and Rules Committee also has that legislation under study, expects action on it in April.

Mayor Koenig notified the Council that he has reappointed Herbert Shultz of Lounsbery Place and the Rev. James Veatch of Wurts Street to terms on the Human Relations Commission ending Dec. 31, 1973 and Howard Fox of Maiden Lane and Rabbi Harry Schectman of Main Street to terms ending Dec. 31, 1974.

The Urban Renewal Agency is asking the city to turn over three streets or portions thereof for its Broadway East project, including Ann Street from Meadow to Mill Street, Chambers Street from Meadow to Mill and East Union from railroad bridge to Broadway. None of the streets is used anymore for vehiclular traffic.

City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco reports that the city dog catcher, Louis Turck, caught 52 dogs in February, five of which were licensed and five were dead. He also collected five dead cats and answered 41 complaints. A total of 388 dog licenses were issued in February and to date, more than 1,800 have been issued by the clerk's office.

Rate Increase for Utilities... Evidence Need May Exist

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission has decided strong evidence exists that electric and telephone firms must be granted large rate increases to maintain service, a staff member says.

But, he added, the commission has not ruled out other changes in utility regulations, which presently require existing regulatory agencies to grant only the lowest rate increases that will guarantee continued service.

The commission debates the politically sensitive issue this week, working against a deadline of next Friday when its 30-day freeze of utility rates is scheduled to end.

The commission last month froze all rates of privately owned utilities, including railroads, airlines and regulated truckers, as well as electric, gas, telephone and telegraph companies. It held four days of public hearings on the subject and discussed the matter in general terms last Tuesday.

"They concluded they had seen substantial evidence that large-percentage increases are needed if there is to be continued service in this country," Price Commission counsel Michael Lang said in an interview. He said he referred to the "fixed" utilities, meaning electric, gas, telephone and telegraph companies.

Lang speculated the freeze would end as scheduled, even if the commission has not drafted new regulations. The commission would have until March 25 to order rollbacks of increases that went into effect and later were found out of line with new policy.

Present regulations generally say existing government regulatory agencies retain authority over utilities, but must make sure those increases granted are the minimum required to maintain service.

The freeze was ordered because the commission decided firmer guidelines are needed for the regulatory bodies. Lang said the commissioners have not yet rejected any of the alternatives proposed during hearings.

One such proposal almost certainly would stimulate competition and lower rates among railroads, airlines and truckers, but might force less-efficient ones into bankruptcy or merger.

This proposal would require each firm be granted only the lowest rate increase it could justify by its own cost increases, rather than the lowest justified by some industry-wide average as in present practice.

Thus, the most efficient firms would get increases lower than the present industrywide average rate increases, and would in turn act as a competitive brake on other firms.

Lang said that the commission also is considering a proposal to deny rate increases to electric companies that promote increased use of power.

Lead Poisoning in Paint: Seeks Vast Federal Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Richard S. Schweicker, R-Pa., today urged intensified government efforts to combat lead-based paint poisoning of children—a problem he said is nearly epidemic in inner-city areas.

He asked for enactment of legislation that would earmark $50 million yearly for research, prevention and treatment programs —nearly seven times what is being spent now.

"The appropriation of $7.5 million for the program last summer has made a significant beginning," Schweicker said in a statement prepared for the opening of hearings on the legislation before a Senate health subcommittee. "However, there is much more that must be done, and we must drastically step up our efforts to combat this tragic disease."

Another witness, Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., testifying on behalf of the 13-member Black Caucus in Congress added:

"You are raising the hopes of tens of thousands of poor families whose children may at any time succumb to lead poisoning. And if we in Congress do not take up that burden by guaranteeing dollars to match rhetoric, and programs to match oratory, then the declining place of our political system held by poor and minority Americans will most assuredly continue."

Ingestion of lead in sufficient quantities can cause severe illness and death. Today's poison victims primarily are children in slum neighborhoods who eat chips of lead-based paint flaking off walls and furniture.

It is estimated that about 200 youngsters, primarily between 1 and 6 are killed by the disease each year. Another 400,000 become ill or are permanently maimed by mental retardation, cerebral palsy, blindness or similar afflictions.

The bill that Schweicker is cosponsoring would give the programs continuing status and lower the acceptable level of lead in paints used indoors from 1 per cent to .06 per cent by weight.

It also would authorize spending $45 million a year for various prevention and treatment programs through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and $5 billion yearly for the Department of Housing and Urban Development to continue research.

Man Released Pending Hearing

WOODSTOCK

Michael Zirinsky, 27, of Glenford, was arrested Saturday night by Hurley State Police on a charge of criminal possession of stolen property third degree. He was cited on complaint of James Gerondidakis of Halcott, who accused the man of having in his possession a snowplow that reportedly was taken from the Glenford Mobile Station.

Zirinsky was taken before Town Justice Rudolf Baumgarten. He was released after posting $200 bail pending a hearing in the Town of Hurley court later.

Trooper Paul D. Aery made the arrest.

Police Nab Youths In Railroad Tunnel

NEW YORK (AP) — Four teen-age boys who allegedly beat and robbed four persons in Riverside Park were in custody after being caught by police in a chase through a darkened Penn Central Railroad tunnel alongside the Henry Hudson Parkway on Manhattan's west side.

Police said the youths—plus a fifth suspect who escaped—beat and robbed two teen-age brothers and a third teen-ager in two separate incidents and then robbed a 23-year-old man at gunpoint in the vicinity of the park Sunday afternoon.

Spotted by police at 3:30 p.m. near West 110th Street, the five suspects leaped off a 25-foot retaining wall and disappeared into the tunnel with four patrolmen in pursuit and additional police on a commandeered diesel locomotive heading into the tunnel from the opposite direction.

One of the four patrolmen sprained his ankle in the leap, but helped capture four of the youths, who were cornered near West 72nd Street. The fifth suspect had disappeared, police said, and was not found in a search of the numerous tunnel cutbacks.

Two of the boys, aged 14 and 15, were held as juvenile delinquents. The other two, both 16, were booked for robbery, assault and criminal trespass.

It's frustrating, sitting here,
knowing we could do more for the people we serve.
Senator Rolison and Assemblyman Bell, the men who travel to Albany, know our hands are tied by some outmoded laws that prevent us from making personal loans and offering checking accounts.
They're already on our side. Because they know that these are services that people need.
And that the only way people can get them now is from commercial banks. But people should have a choice.
Like our legislators, we'd like to see the laws changed.
To help the people, to help the economy.
And we're asking everyone who feels the same as our representatives to back them up.
To write and tell them. Together, maybe we can get it done this year.

State May Lose Money On Treatment Plants

ALBANY, N.Y. AP — An underestimate of costs of sewage treatment plants in the state could result in the state's losing as much as $413 million dollars in federal funds, according to State Environmental Conservation Commissioner Henry Diamond.

Diamond said Sunday that Congress is considering an extension of the Federal Clean Water Restoration Act, but is relying on original cost estimates for sewage treatment facilities.

Diamond said the original cost estimate is far too low, due to rising costs.

"Yet these are the figures the Environmental Protection Agency is supplying to Congress as it authorizes repayment to the state and its municipalities for the federal share of sewage treatment projects we have prefinanced."

The commissioner said that Congress has been told New York is owed $877 million dollars in prefinancing. The amount actually should be $1.3 billion, he said.

Under prefinancing, the state pays a municipality the amount of anticipated federal funding for a project, so that actual construction will not be delayed pending receipt of the federal grant.

Diamond said a review of the prefinanced projects undertaken with federal approval since the state's Pure Waters Program began in 1965, shows that the actual federal obligation for repayment is substantially more than represented in the municipalities' original applications.

Diamond said he has sent a letter to EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus, asking him to review the situation and inform Congress so that the amount actually expended by the state will be reflected in the pending legislation.

Upper Road Closed To Hasbrouck Park

KINGSTON

The single lane road leading from Hasbrouck Avenue to the upper level of Hasbrouck Park near the new ski tow has been closed to all traffic, effective immediately, according to Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of recreation.

Murphy said that the road had been plowed to allow Recreation Department vehicles to reach Upper Hasbrouck Park, but that heavy traffic has weakened the road's foundation.

The Hasbrouck Park ski tow, said Murphy, will remain open as long as conditions permit this year, but he warned prospective skiers to park their cars at the lower level of the park and not to attempt to drive up the road.

Murphy also emphasized that snowmobiles are prohibited from operating at Hasbrouck Park, unless specifically authorized by the Recreation Commission. Murphy said that snowmobiles are especially hazardous at Hasbrouck because of the many people at the park using the ski facilities. He said the only snowmobile permitted on the premises is the one used by the Recreation Department to pack down the snow on the ski slope.

The Hasbrouck ski slope, according to Murphy, has been a popular addition to the city's recreation facilities, with a large number of skiers using the facilities each day. He said the ski slope will remain open as long as there is an adequate amount of snow.

Murphy also announced that the four skating rinks located in Block, Loughran and Hasbrouck Parks and Dietz Stadium have been closed for the season.

Given 'Thunderous' Reception

Koscot Founder at Granit

By JIM POWERS

ACCORD

Seldom is a man idolized by his employes the way Koscot distributors worship Glenn W. Turner. That became evident the moment Turner stepped onto the stage Saturday at the Granit Hotel in Accord.

A thunderous foot-stomping ovation from a thousand Koscot employes erupted when the multi-millionaire founder of Koscot Cosmetics made his initial appearance at the Granit. The euphoria did not subside until Turner departed an hour later.

What preceeded Turner's appearance Saturday was pure theatrics. The houselights at the Granit's huge nightclub were dimmed; a thousand men and women waited expectantly. Then came the strains of a recent Turner recording, expounding the principles of hope, faith, courage and self-esteem—complete with the chorus from the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." The recording was played a second time, followed by minutes of complete silence. When the lights were raised, Turner stood as if magically placed on stage.

Everyone knew it was coming, but they still went wild. It seemed as though the same scene had been played and replayed hundreds of times. Even the ovation, which lasted for a solid minute, was ended abruptly on a cue from Turner.

Saturday's performance laid to rest any thoughts that Koscot's solidarity might have been affected by recent court hassles. In December, a New York County Court Judge ordered Koscot to stop fraudulent practices, and in February the same court ordered Koscot to show cause why it should not be held in contempt for allegedly failing to abide by the December ruling.

While allegations that it has operated fraudulently have been repeatedly denied by Koscot officials, Turner made no mention of the charges Saturday. Instead, he urged his workers to continue to believe in themselves, and he emphasized that they can accomplish whatever they set out to do, as long as they are sure of their own success.

Turner's audience was comprised of both Koscot distributors and Dare to be Great participants. The latter, a subsidiary of Turner Enterprises, consists of "courses" that are designed to help members achieve success. Dare to be Great courses are sold in much the same fashion as Koscot distributorships, and the subsidiary was cited along with Koscot in the recent New York court ruling.

Turner, who borrowed $5,000 in 1967 and turned it into a $100 million empire, was interrupted by ovations several times during his 30-minute speech at the Granit, which serves as Northeast region headquarters for Koscot. The biggest ovation came when Turner pointed to a huge painting done by one of his Dare to be Great disciples and said, "Some day that will hang in the White House." Turner has long maintained he'll someday be President.

After his speech, Turner was mobbed by his followers, who strained to shake "the Man's" hand. He greeted everyone personally and then rushed to catch a plane for another meeting where a thousand more devotees waited. Saturday was just a lone chapter in a continuing gala by Glenn Turner—20th century Pied Piper.

Jack Anderson Says

Wrong Man Faces Charges

WASHINGTON — When Democrats run afoul of federal corruption laws, the Justice Department quite properly throws the book at them. Only last month, for example, aging Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., got an 18-month sentence for taking a $25,000 bribe.

But this same zealous prosecution doesn't seem to apply to loyal Nixon supporters on Capitol Hill.

For instance, we wrote in March 1970, that Rep. Jim Collins, R-Tex., had been fleecing some of his employes out of part of their federal paychecks.

But it was Collins's administrative assistant, George Haag, who wound up with a 23-count kickback indictment. For weeks thereafter, the loyal Haag kept his mouth shut about Collins, whose elegant manners have won him the nickname "Gentleman Jim."

But a few days ago, Haag decided that Collins wasn't so gentlemanly after all and blew the whistle on him.

Through a new lawyer, Tom Wadden, the disillusioned Haag got word to Federal Judge Oliver Gasch that he feared he had been gulled by Collins into putting his own head in the noose.

During the pre-indictment FBI investigation, Wadden said, the Congressman retained the prominent Dallas law firm of Golden, Burrow, Potts and Boeckman to defend Haag. The legal fees were picked up by the Congressman.

"Certainly, a logical inference," the Judge was informed, "would be that the firm was retained in fact to represent Congressman Collins's interests . . . and only coincidentally those interests of Haag when they did not conflict with the Congressman's."

Furthermore, charged Haag, the government "is in possession of evidence that irrefutably establishes that Congressman Collins received moneys during the indictment period from . . . employes."

The government also knows that the employes' money was "deposited in the Congressman's personal checking account," Haag alleged.

Yet Collins, thanks to the Justice Department, is still defending Nixon policies on Capitol Hill, while Haag faces a 23-count indictment that could put him in prison.

As to Haag's charges, Collins told us: "Those are not the facts." At the Dallas law firm's offices, attorney Duncan Boeckman declined all comment.

In a second case, the Justice Department has dawdled for months over Rep. J. Irving Whalley, R-Pa., the ex-UN delegate whose ingenious kickback schemes we began revealing last September.

The FBI made a few desultory passes at Whalley's ex-employes, but failed even to question Robert Collary, a Duncansville, Pa., print shop owner. Whalley paid him thousands of dollars as a "clerk" on his House payroll. In fact, Collary kicked back $1,500 to $2,000 to Whalley in the form of free printing for Whalley. Both denied this is a "kickback."

Now, Justice may find itself outdistanced by a motorcycle-riding country prosecutor, Assistant District Attorney John Woodcock, of Blair County. Woodcock has been in Washington quietly looking into Whalley's payroll records and political contributions.

No matter who gets to Whalley first, he may find himself indicting an ex-Congressman. After our second series of revelations, Whalley gave up and announced he will not run for reelection in November.

FOOTNOTE: To the credit of out-going Attorney General John Mitchell, he moved against New England Mafia big shot Paul Coppola, whose extortion and usury activities we revealed in November 1969. Significantly, Coppola is a long-time friend and ex-business partner of Rep. Bob Giaimo — a Democrat.

Taiwan Training

In the aftermath of the Chinese-American detente, America's anti-communist allies in Asia are quietly pulling together.

A secret intelligence report discloses, for example, that Taiwan's National Security Bureau and Ministry of Defense has "concluded agreements with the governments of Cambodia, Thailand and the Republic of Vietnam, wherein (Taiwan) will provide political warfare training for four groups of officers from these countries.

"The political training will be administered and conducted by the (Defense Ministry's) general political warfare department and will emphasize the following subjects: psychological warfare, anti-communist security procedures, the understanding of communist theory and practice, organization of the civilian population and propaganda techniques.

"The training program is code-named Yuan P'eng — Friends from Afar."

Washington Whirl

KLAN CROWS — When the FBI's resident intellectual, William Sullivan, was forced out by imperious old J. Edgar Hoover, even some of Hoover's most loyal allies were distressed. But removal of the capable number three FBI official brought applause from Ku Klux Klan "Wizard" Robert M. Shelton. "We must commend Mr. Hoover's stand against Sullivan," crowed Shelton in the Klan's smear sheet. It was Sullivan's vigorous intelligence work which brought the Klan to its present low estate.

HEALTH HEARINGS — Consumer-conscious Senators Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., will soon be leveling their guns on private health insurance companies. They have scheduled a series of investigative hearings for early this spring. The major question the Senators will be asking the insurers is whether they pay hospital bills blindly without checking to see whether the service was of high quality and all charges justified.

Tax Revolt Warning

Pay increases to offset inflation recently have moved taxpayers into higher tax brackets. At the same time state and local governments were meeting the need for more funds by raising income taxes or imposing higher real estate and sales taxes. The squeeze from all three government levels—federal, state and local—caught the middle-income taxpayer in between. The result is that a tax revolt that can endanger the social structure is brewing.

This warning was implicit in the monthly economic report of the Manufacturers Hanover Trust, written by Tilford Gaines, senior vice president and economist.

Resistance to rising state and local taxes have been partially blunted by cuts in federal taxes, despite the fact that the cuts were largely offset by sharply increased Social Security payroll taxes. Further reductions in federal taxes likely will not be possible for the next several years, Gaines said, so we must look elsewhere for relief.

The only place to look now is for cuts in government expenditures at all levels. The middle-income group, which has most recently attained economic self-sufficiency, is going to want to keep some of its new income and will demand prudent expenditures by government in order to hold on to it.

All Volunteer Unit

It just happend that the 187 men of Company B, First Battalion, Second Brigade, in basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., is the only basic training group in the Army consisting entirely of Regular Army volunteers. They are men who enlisted for several reasons, their draft number was low and made them vulnerable for the draft, they wanted a chance to choose the specialized schools they could go to, or they were attracted by the higher pay, liberalized benefits or looser disciplines recently adopted.

Since Company B is an all-volunteer unit, the Army has made it a test by which it will try to find out what attracts volunteers. Will men continue to enlist without the threat of the draft is the major question to be decided.

B Company is also called Bravo Company. It is a mix of 128 high school graduates, seven with college degrees, 30 with at least one year of college and the rest high school dropouts. Their average educational level is 11.3 years of schooling.

Most reacted to basic training negatively, angry and disillusioned. Some few are dedicated. That is standard for basic training life. The Army will follow the men, after they complete their basic and go their ways in the service, to judge how many will reenlist, and for what cause, and how many will leave and why. It is a good laboratory in the search for the all-volunteer Army projected for 1975.

PROXMIRE'S COSMETICS—Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin, at 56, first sported a pair of black eyes, evidence of cosmetic surgery under the eyes. Then, his bandaged head told of a hair transplant treatment. A man who takes such measures plainly intends to go a-courting again, but youth itself cannot be repeated.

STAUBACH ON WINNING — Roger Staubach, the former Naval Lieutenant hero of the Dallas Cowboys, had this word of advice for youngsters: "I don't believe kids should be taught that winning is everything. But in pro football, I know winning is everything." It's the difference between playing for fun and playing for pay.

REAGAN ON CHINA — Praising President Nixon's trip to China as "bold, courageous and wonderful," Governor Ronald Reagan said if he were a Democrat he'd be "up the walls screaming because if you look at a the record you'll have to believe that a Democratic President would be appeasement-minded and would trade away the country's rights. Nixon only means to establish communications with Communist China." Conservatives should note Reagan's surprising reaction. Most are upset at the trip, but Senator Buckley of New York joins Reagan in opinion.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Primary Futility

The New Hampshire primary is ready to roll, once won by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge sitting in far-off Vietnam — the utter futility of which may give you some hint about the purpose of this article.

As the TV cameras and hordes of newsmen flood into New Hampshire the candidates are poised in beautiful, newsworthy array. But some are sure to end up like the eager sprinter who got shot by the starter's gun or a New Hampshire jumper whose skis flew off on his first leap. Ach du lieber, Augustin!

Beginning young, I have attended a total of 20 national political conventions of both — both — parties. This holds the convention-attendance record in the reportorial field, although more unavoidable than an achievement. And, being instructed by the 20 conventions, I can only see the New Hampshire primary and other hootenannies as a waste of public attention.

Win in some primaries, and so what? I was in New Hampshire for the 1952 primary. Democratic Sen. Estes Kefauver defeated incumbent President Harry S. Truman. The upset left the public and all media aghast and the president's political world disintegrated like a China vase hit by a train. Surely, no 1972 primary result will be that sensational. Then Mr. Kefauver went on in 1956 to win a total of seven primaries.

But, like Mary, Queen of Scots, his end was in his beginning. At the convention Mr. Kefauver got only the face-saving nomination for vice-president and nearly lost even this to Sen. John F. Kennedy, who had banked no primary assets at all.

Each hootenanny will cost each major entrant at least $200,000. In fact, a California primary cost John F. Kennedy and Nelson A. Rockefeller $1.25 million apiece. In trying for the presidency, Robert F. Kennedy ran up a debt of $2 million in his primary races. The Kennedy family finally negotiated part of this $2 million down with Kennedy creditors to a few cents on the dollar and then passed the objecting creditors' unpaid balance of $1.25 million, which remains unpaid to this day, onto the Democratic National Committee.

The party is obligated for your expenses, of course, only after you are its convention's nominee. How the Kennedy family managed this remains a prime mystery in politics. But when Hubert H. Humphrey saw it achieved he could not be denied his own primary costs while competing against Robert Kennedy. As a result, their primary debts are a substantial part of the Democratic party $6 million debt today.

After New Hampshire there will be four primaries in this month alone. there will be 24 before the election. Thirteen Democrats have somehow decided they should be president, with most of them having no more chance for the nomination than a snowball in you-know-where.

It is always woefully hard to penetrate the flackery. But in these hootenannies even the news value vanishes at once. All media focus on the next primary. And there's an anticlimatic debate about the size of your victory, anyway. Detractors shout that you won no victory and actually lost.

The losers roar that the state isn't typical of the nation's voters, as is sure to happen in New Hampshire. Or that the state political organization let them down, or they didn't campaign there as long as the winner, or it was snowing or raining, or they ran out of campaign buttons or gin or something. And the total commotion by the losers has its designed effect.

It drains away the victor's benefits from his primary victory like a hole in a wobbly balloon.

Moreover, the nominating convention's arithmetic is stern and in it how much do primary victories add up to? The contested primaries counted for only 150 of the 1,333 delegates at the 1968 Republican National Convention. The Democratic convention arithmetic makes the primary pledges equally meaningless.

Primaries can produce negative results. This is their true potential. They can give the owl's ill-omened hoot and kill off as smoothly as the swipe of a leopard's paw a presidential hopeful's hopes. But that's the only real thing primaries can do.

You can safely interpret the New Hampshire and other primary results exclusively from that negative angle. Beyond this, kind friends, save your reading and viewing time. Foreget them.

Moral: Don't Waste Good Food

Fat people have two choices: they can eat and remain fat, or they can diet painfully and conscientiously until they reach a desired weight, and then gorge their stomachs until they are up to the blubber stage again. At which point, the dismal syndrome begins anew.

It was Ernest Havemann, a dozen years ago, who wrote that the trouble with diets is that the word itself sounds temporary. It connotes something to be endured for awhile, and then tossed aside. It is closer to good health to state that what is required is not a diet, but a permanent change in eating habits.

It sounds like an oversimplification to state that those of us who fight a weight problem must learn to enjoy the foods we abhor, and renounce the ones we covet. But that's the God's truth, honey chile, a man named Lindlahr once wrote a book called "You Are What You Eat."

In that case, I am a cheese pizza and a mashed potato and gravy. I do not resemble either of these, although I have friends who suggest that it would be an improvement. I am five feet seven and a half and wiegh 172 pounds. This is not as bad as it sounds. I once weighed 184.

My goal is 160 pounds, but I am not going to make it. If I tortured my stomach sufficiently, I could do it. But, the moment the Toledos tipped at 160, I would consider it a license to return to eating the fattening food I enjoy. Philosophically, I would be 160 pounds for about four days, then start inching back up to 172.

I have always felt that our appetites are the product of our mothers' whims. When we were in highchairs, Mom shoveled food into our little mouths, whether we spat it out or not. Almost all of it was fattening food, because all mothers adored chubby babies. Anyone who exhibited a normal looking infant was told that the baby looked "frail, sickly."

Eating habits established at the imprinting stage of life will not be altered. Until 1922, when the flat-chested flapper emerged, most women were not considered attractive unless they weighed about 180 pounds and had curves like the Pennsylvania Railroad at Altoona. I had a mother-in-law who was five feet tall, had no neck, and weighed 190 on the hoof.

She panted sitting. Three men, Andrew Gordon, Ronald Goldman and Stanley Schacter, conducted food experiments on obese and normal people. All three were psychologists and, in tests on types of crackers (salted, garlic, cheese, etc.), learned that the lean subjects, when asked to grade the crackers according to taste, ingested a few of each.

The fat subjects ate more of each type of cracker, even though they had just finished a meal. I have found that the greediest eaters are those who were born of poor parents and missed meals when they were young.

Others are clock eaters. After a good breakfast at 8 a.m., they will leave the office at noon to ingest a hearty lunch, even if they do not feel hungry. They may not feel hungry when they get home from the office, but the first question is always the same: "What's to eat?"

The clock eaters are also television eaters. Years ago, when candy stores were installed in the lobby of movie houses, most of us learned to buy an assortment of candy to eat during the show. The same people now run to the refrigerator when a TV movie is interrupted by three commercials.

I don't know whether there is such a thing as a nervous eating, but, if there is, I'm a prime suspect. I lie at the foot of my big bed at 11 p.m. to watch the late news, and, at five minutes of 11, I begin yelling for someone in the kitchen to please make a liverwurst and onion sandwich for me on rye toast. I finish it without knowing that I ate it.

Colored gumdrops and big bars of bittersweet chocolate are other favorites for the late movie. I chew and watch, and watch and chew. Schacter writes that fat people eat as much when they are badly frightened as when they are calm. Subjects of normal weight eat less when scared than when calm.

All of which tends to prove that what we eat, and how much, is a matter of fixed habit, difficult to kick. Weekend guests eat more than at home. They protest. They talk of diets. They smile weakly. And they eat.

There is no pill which will reduce weight. Some precipitate fluid from the body cells, but ravenous thirst is the equalizer. Other pills inhibit the appetite, but not for long. To the fat person, food is not fuel for the body. It is a joy unto itself. A lip-smacking joy.

I love to dine. Take the "n" out of that word and you can see what overindulgence leads to. Maybe if I just push the plate away. No, it's a sin to waste good food.

WINTER HAIR PROBLEMS

Don't think "parched hair" is strictly a summer complaint. Winter also takes out its wrath on our hair, but the problems are still different. The sudden change from overheated rooms to the bitter cold outdoors affects the crowning glory. It tends to become dry and brittle. Hair is bundled under hats and scarves, so that the fresh sunshine and breezes that are often beneficial don't get a chance to held keep it healthy.

With spring just around the corner, let us take care of your winter hair problems now. Carousel Coiffures, 702-C Broadway, Kingston. 331-9330.

She Stays at Home While Husband Plays

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband just turned 60. We have been married for 18 years. A year ago he took up with a widow he used to go with 40 years ago. She broke up with him when the doctor told him he would have to have his foot amputated. She said she couldn't bear the thought of marrying a man who couldn't dance. She married someone else and moved out of town.

When her husband died last year she moved back to town and made contact with my husband. That's when he started seeing her behind my back.

My husband took a week's vacation and he and this lady went off on a "honeymoon" together. Meanwhile I was home laying the bricks for our patio.

When I found all this out I told him to make a choice. Her or me. He said he "loved" me and was only having "fun" with her.

How much more "fun" should I let him have before I kick him out?

STAY-AT-HOME WIFE

DEAR STAY: I would say that he has had more "fun" than he's entitled to already. Tell him to shape up or ship out.

DEAR ABBY: Already I am worried about our next summer vacation.

My husband gets three weeks off, and he wants to take me and the children on a picture-taking trip to the Western Parks region, as he is a camera buff.

Our children are 7 and 10, and they do not get along with each other, so you can imagine what an automobile trip with them is like for three weeks.

I realize that my husband works hard all year and deserves the kind of vacation he enjoys, but I don't relish the idea of being referee for the kids while Father pursues his hobby which involves looking for places to photograph and endless waiting for perfect sun directions.

What is your advice?

PLANNING AHEAD

DEAR PLANNING: Why not compromise and spend part of your vacation doing his thing, and the other part doing whatever you prefer?

A suggestion: On long motor trips with kids who don't get along, instead of putting them both in the back seat, let one sit in front with Dad, and keep the other in the back with you. Then switch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my seventies and have not been in the social swim for the past few years.

I was invited to a party at the home of a friend and was told that we would play cards and have a nice buffet supper.

I went and had a delightful time, until the hostess sat down at a card table and asked every guest for $2.50 to "defray expenses." (One guest had to borrow the money to pay as she didn't have that much with her.)

I would like to know if this is the customary thing to do now. Sign me.

BEHIND THE TIMES

DEAR BEHIND: "Dutch treat" parties are fine, when the guests are told in advance that it's "Dutch," but there's something rotten in Denmark when the hostess "surprises" her guests with a bill.

Sisterhood Meeting Wednesday

Hadassah Social

Hadassah will celebrate its 60th anniversary and the birthday of Henrietta Szold, founder of Hadassah, this evening at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, at 8 o'clock.

Speaker will be Mrs. Morton Ellish of Newburgh, president of the Lower New York State Region of Hadassah, who just returned from Israel after attending the Zionist Convention.

Sixty years ago a genteel Baltimore spinster named Henrietta Szold, who had already acquired a considerable reputation in her own country as a founder of the night-school movement for immigrants, organized a women's Zionist study circle.

Appalled by the utter desolation of the Jews, Moslems and Christians living in Palestine under the Turkish Ottoman rule, Miss Szold reacted with a typical American response. She enlarged the scope of her study circle and added a relief organization which pioneered in bringing public health, medical relief and education to a people who had been virtually ignored since the Crusades.

The name of Miss Szold's organization, which she founded on Feb. 29, 1912, is Hadassah. It started with less than a dozen women and today has 325,000 members in close of 1,400 chapters and groups.

Among Miss Szold's many friends were such notables as Fiorello La Guardia, Frances Perkins, Justice Louis D. Brandeis, Dr. Judah Magnes and Eleanor Roosevelt.

Hostess for the evening will be Mrs. Leo Holtz, honoring her daughter, Esta Rae, on her forthcoming marriage.

Fashion Tips

Beach coats, which come with matching bathing suits, are being made in such pretty Paisleys and with such careful attention to details that they can double as dresses. So when you're planning for your next vacation, keep in mind this extra dress. You can choose lengths from very short to maxi.

Long jumpers made of clingy nylon can be worn alone as an evening dress for a night on the town. Or with a brightly patterned blouse underneath, it becomes again a daytime jumper.

A bodysuit is a basic for many people. A center around which to make those quick changes from knickers to pants skirts to long skirts.

Going along with the clamor for carefree fabric, comes the sweater suit. Long and close-fitting or short and flared, spring suits will never be the same.

UCCC Awarded 1973 Region XV Tournament

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

Next year's Region XV championships will be held at Ulster County Community College, it was decided at a vote of tournament directors last Saturday prior to the 1972 final game. This was another victory for Senator coach Mike Perry—the icing on the biggest piece of cake the fiery mentor has ever enjoyed.

"Super" was the adjective of the year for the Ulster team who now have their sights set on the Nationals in Kansas. No prior team from the Mid-Hudson Conference has ever gone that far in post season play, and no Senator team has even reached the finals of the regional tournament. Not through all the years of Joe Uhls, Glen Berrys and Jerry Moss's has there ever been a team from Ulster CCC like this one.

After posting the finest regular season record in the school's history, the team was honored by "Super Senator Week," proclaimed by the county legislature. And in the Region XV playoffs, Ulster proved worthy of all the accolade by defeating their three opponents by a total margin of 53 points and setting a new tournament defensive record of 62.2 in the process.

And make no mistake, Ulster was the class of the tournament. A pesky Dutchess Community College squad led by Region All-Stars Ray Brown and Keith Daly were the Senators' first victims. In a New York City Community College gym almost devoid of spectators, Ulster survived some first half jitters to move into the second round against a Manhattan team that had mauled their first opponents by sheer brute strength. Manhattan never had a chance.

In one of the finest displays of basketball skill and finesse ever seen in the NYCCC gym, Ulster annihilated the Panthers so totally they won the respect of every spectator present. It was a surprise to almost everyone, except the Senators, that is. This is a tight, well-disciplined ballclub, and that is the key to their success.

Cliff Weeks plays for Ulster. In many ways he is typical of the team members. A 6-5 sophomore from Brooklyn, Cliff sees a lot of action but rarely is listed in the starting lineup. But sitting the bench for Ulster does not carry the stigma traditionally associated with that position. Cliff is a leading member of the legion known as the "Super Subs," a bench that Region XV's director, Bob Lake called the "best in the East."

At halftime in the final game against top-seeded Farmingdale, the Senators went to the locker room trailing by five points. That was the usual situation for a Farmingdale opponent this season, but the Senators were far from finished.

Wiping off the sweat, resting and listening to Perry's instructions, Walter Lloyd said: "Hey Cliff, let's hear your poem."

Weeks smiled, "United we stand, divided we fall. If we stay united—we fly United."

They laughed. And the second half was just as enjoyable. The fearsome Aggies got beat at their own game—defense. The Ulster machine was well-oiled, and the Senators had come to win.

And Weeks? Well, besides poet laureate, Cliff had the Super Sub role this night. Spelling Pete Koola for a breather, Cliff took a pass from Jack Knowles, spun off his man and fired a left-handed hook good for two from ten feet. Then he ripped down four of the next five rebounds. Then he was replaced by Koola.

Mike Perry is one of the most successful junior college basketball coaches in the country. A move to a four-year school seemed likely for him before the tournament, and his position with alumni associations from Siena College was strengthened by the Ulster showing.

It was Sunday afternoon in a van carrying the remnants of the Ulster team back to campus. There was wet snow on the sides of the Thruway and speculations inside the bus about the upcoming trip to Kansas.

"How far is it from Colorado?" said Pete Koola.

"Did you hear about all those people calling the radio station with donations?" asked Gary McDonald.

"Who are we going to play?"

"Watch for the radar."

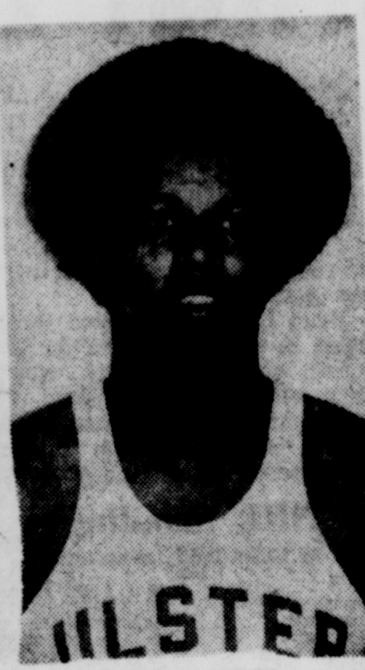
Mike Perry was driving. "I was glad we could win for all those people who came down to see us," he mused. "Next year at our place, I'll show them how to run a tournament." And then we got talking about two year schools and four year schools, and Perry broke in:

"Let's see. Next year I've got Nixon back and Jackie, and Nelson, and Link . . . I just don't know."

Nixon MHC All-Star Pick

HENRY NIXON

PETE KOOLA



COLEMAN LINK

Link, Koola On 2nd Team

STONE RIDGE

Henry Nixon, Ulster Community's brilliant freshman forward, has been named to 1972 Mid-Hudson Conference first all-star team announced Saturday by Bob Lake, Region XV director.

Coleman Link, one of the big heroes of the Senators' Region XV triumph, and Pete Koola were named to the second team. The voting took place prior to the Region XV tournament.

Nixon, a 6-0 graduate of Benjamin Cardoza High of New York City, was Ulster's leading scorer with 438 points and a 15.1 game average in the Senators' fantistic 27-2 run to Region XV honors. He also had the best field goal percentage on the team.

Other first team choices were Big Sam Quimby of Orange County, a 6-5 ace who averaged 26.6 points for the season and pulled down a total of 301 rebounds; Al Hall of Westchester and two Dutchess Community stars — Ray Brown and Keith Daly.

Brown, the Dutchess Falcons' ace scorer and rebounder was named the most valuable player in the Mid-Hudson conference with Quimby as the runner-up.

Joining Link and Koola on the second team were Jake Battenfeld of Westchester and two Sullivan players — Ron Sprung and James Williams.

Mid-Hudson Conference coaches took note of Koola's fine defensive work for UCCC. Although overshadowed by his more spectacular teammates, Koola was a steady performer for Ulster in the rebounding and scoring department. Link came on strongly in the latter stages of the season, climaxing it with a brilliant Region XV tournament.

The all-star selections:

Swor Tops Ski Jump

BERLIN, N.H. (UPI)—U.S. ski team member Craig Swor of Duluth, Minn., won the U.S. Ski Jump championship Sunday in snowy weather on the Nansen Ski Club's 80-meter jump.

Swor compiled 205.7 points and had the event's longest jump of 74 meters.

About 7,000 spectators watched the competition, which coincided with the Nansen Ski Club's 100th anniversary.

The entire U.S. and Canadian Olympic ski jumping teams participated in the competition, which listed 100 entrants.

U.S. ski team member Craig Windsperger finished behind Swor with 202.1 points and a long jump of 73 meters. Scott Berry of Deadwood. S.D., also a U.S. team member, was third with 189.3 points; Zdenek Mezl of the Canadian team was fourth with 187.2 points; and Dave Merrill of Brattleboro, Vt. and the Brattleboro Outing Club was fifth with 184.7 points.

Rain, Controversy Plague Doral Golf

MIAMI (UPI) — This year's $150,000 Doral Eastern Open golf tournament has been rocked by controversy and plagued by rain. But in today's final round it turned into a competitive masterpiece.

Superstars Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino tee off in the windup locked in a tie for the lead at 10-under-par 206 for three rounds and just one stroke back are oldtimers Sam Snead and Paul Harney.

The final round had been set for Sunday, but heavy rains just after noon forced postponement until today. It was the second rain delay in two days.

Saturday, a downpour halfway through the third round washed out all scores. In a hotly-disputed move, the PGA eliminated 30 golfers who scored 147 or worse after two rounds and scheduled 36 holes for the remaining 52 golfers Sunday. But the rains came again after the 18 holes of the third round, pushing the finish into Monday.

Nicklaus said after his round Sunday he thought the rain made the course play easier because the greens were holding better.

His eight-under-par 64 tied the course record Nicklaus himself set in 1969, but he said he played better three years ago because in 1969 the greens were slick and he had to contend with gusty winds.

If Nicklaus wins the tournament today he will pass Arnold Palmer for the lead on the all-time money winning list. The $30,000 first prize would put him $6,000 head of Palmer with winnings of $1,477,200.86 over his 10-year career.

"I feel fortunate to be tied for the lead after a man shoots a 64," Trevino said of Nicklaus' steady round. Trevino shot a 68 Sunday, although rain interrupted his round three times and it took him more than six hours to play 18 holes—over two hours more than normal.

Another steady round was turned in by 59-year-old Snead, who shot a 68.

The rainout was sure to help the legendary pro, giving his legs a chance to rest for the final round today. He was paired with Nicklaus in a natural for the galleries.

Harney, who fired a 68 Sunday, played with Trevino—a contrast between the soft-spoken New Englander and the flamboyant Texan.

Bitterness on the part of some pros who were among the 30 eliminated after Saturday's rainout has overshadowed the flap earlier in the week over the unreasonably tough redesigned 10th hole.

But the rains helped there, too, as only five scores over par were made on the par-five hole Sunday. The hole was overhauled last summer but then settled in the rear, which meant numerous shots skip over the green into the pond beyond.

The rain helped the 10th green hold on Sunday in contrast to earlier rounds, when scores as high as 11 were carded on the hole and Mike Hill, who shot a six Thursday, called it "an absolute abortion."

With Nicklaus and Trevino going against Snead and Harney it seemed a shame that the tournament would not be broadcast nationally on television. Hughes Sports Network had scheduled telecasts for Saturday and Sunday, but Saturday's hour had to be filled by interviews and Sunday's telecast was canceled. The network decided not to televise today.

Placid Wasn't

By LAURENCE McQUILLAN

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI)—The Soviet Union, as expected, dominated the World University Winter Games (FISU) which ended Sunday with a ceremony at Lake Placid and a hockey game in Plattsburgh.

Russia captured a total of 30 medals--14 first place gold medals, 11 silvers for second, and five bronze medals for third place finishes.

The Soviets defeated the United States 4-1 at Plattsburgh Sunday in the last of the nine days of competition.

But while the extinguishing of the torch at one end of the Lake Placid Olympic Stadium signalled the end of the games, there was no end to the discussion of the scheduling of the biennial event.

Ernest J. Matthews, who represented the International Skiing Union at the games, criticized FISU for holding its winter games in the same year as the Olympics and other major international competition.

"They are killing themselves and, so far, they have refused to cooperate with us," Matthews said. "No athlete of top class standing is going to compete in this event when he has a chance for a more important title," he said.

The games, in which 23 nations competed, was by-passed by all but a handful of the athletes who competed at the Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. FISU officials had originally claimed that at least half of the Olympic competitors would participate in the games at this Adirondack Mountain resort community.

Matthews said he has talked with Trimo Nabiolo of Italy, president of the sports organization, and urged him to reschedule the games for years that would not find the event competing with the Olympics and major World Cup competitions.

"I couldn't get anywhere with the man. He didn't seem interested," Matthews said.

"This problem will be discussed at our next general assembly," Nabiolo said.

He said there had been many discussions on the subject but declined to elaborate. The FISU assembly is slated to meet in Moscow when the group holds its Summer Games there Aug. 15-25.

Officials were forced to hold a three team round-robin hockey tournament after only teams from the United States, Russia and Canada competed. Originally, eight teams were expected to participate.

Other events were also hampered by the lack of athletes, including the short pairs figure skating event, which attracted only two teams.

Fix, Fix, Fix ?

Monzon Rhubarb

ROME (UPI) — Champion and challenger showed no signs of damage, but boxing, Italian style, sported another black eye Sunday.

It was inflicted Saturday night on the sport when Carlos Monzon of Argentina retained his world middleweight crown with a fifth round knockout over challenger Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore.

The verdict, blamed on an Argentine referee's hastiness in ending the bout, brought a storm of criticism and a show of anger by fans.

The crowd at the Sports Palace showered the ring for 15 minutes with oranges, apples, pears, bread rolls, coins, newspapers, shoes and anything else they could throw. Ringsiders stood in their seats and chanted: "Fix, fix, fix."

The 29-year-old Monzon, making the third defense of the title he won 27 months ago by knocking out Italian idol Nino Benvenuti, celebrated his triumph huddled in his corner protected by handlers.

Moyer stormed out of the ring guarded by police after failing in his first world title bid since losing a share of the world light middleweight crown in 1963.

The uproar centered on Argentine referee Lorenzo Fortunato, who stopped the bout after 1:50 minutes of the fifth round with both men still on their feet and trading punches. Moyer was dropped for a mandatory eight count a few seconds earlier and appeared in trouble when Fortunato intervened, but ringsiders said he was not helpless or hurt. Moyer agreed later.

Two Italian judges said they scored the fight even through four rounds. Ringsiders, other boxers and newsmen accused Fortunato of stopping it too quickly. Some suggested he let national loyalties sway his judgment.

"Dear Carlos," said the Rome newpaper Corriere Sportuvo, "if you want to earn all the money Rome can offer . . . leave your referee at home next time."

The contract stipulated an Argentine referee and before the fight Moyer said he did not mind. It was the first world championship fight in Rome since Monzon beat Benvenuti, and it drew a crowd of 13,000 with gate receipts reported at $72,560.

Monzon, 29, used his pumping left hook to score, while Moyer, 32, mixed his shots and jarred the campion a couple of times with upper-cuts. It was a crisp left hook which sent Moyer down for the count, but he bounced right back up and immediately was rocked by hook combinations.

For Willie Shoemaker: 92nd $100,000 Victory

By United Press International

Bill Shoemaker drove Turkish Trousers ($5.40) to a head victory in the $100,000 Santa Margarita Handicap for fillies and mares at Santa Anita for his fifth win of the day and his fifth win in the Santa Margarita.

It was his 92nd win in a $100,000-added money race — the top figure of any jockey.

Shoemaker surpassed Eddie Arcaro's record when he scored his 555th added money victory Thursday to become the all-time stakes winning champion.

Turkish Trousers, the national champion 3-year-old filly in 1971, covered the 1 1-8 miles in 1:47 1-5 to snap the stakes record of 1:48 1-5 set by Bug Brush in 1959.

Turkish Trousers earned $60,000 for capturing her 10th career stakes win to run her total earnings to $298,225. Convenience finished second and Typecast was third.

Shoemaker began his incredible victory run by taking the first race aboard Terry Berry ($6.80), the third on Shale ($6.80), the fifth with Koryo ($10.80) and the sixth with Quack ($3.20).

In other feature results Saturday, Explodent ($7.00) seized the $28,657 Swift Stakes at Aqueduct; The Pie Host ($30.20) scored an upset in the $25,000 added Contra Costa Stakes at Golden Gate Fields and Executioner ($3.80) won as expected in the $50,000 Seminole Handicap at Hialeah.

76ers Edge Knicks

Royals Hand Celts A 125-114 Setback

By United Press International

The Boston Celtics watched almost in disbelief Sunday as Nate Archibald and Tom Van Arsdale put on an astounding shooting display to lead the Cincinnati Royals to a 125-114 victory over Boston.

Archibald, one of the smallest players in the National Basketball Association and Van Arsdale scored 39 points each including 17 apiece during a fourth-quarter barrage that buried Boston. Boston led 87-78 after three periods when Archibald and Van Arsdale went to work.

The Royals hit 78 per cent of their shots in the final period and outscored the Celtics 47-27 to snap Boston's five-game winning streak. Nate Williams added 18 points for Cincinnati while John Havlicek led the Celtics with 29 and Jo Jo White had 28.

In other NBA action, Phoenix routed Buffalo 131 103, Philadelphia edged New York 100-98, Chicago crushed Houston 128-97, Baltimore downed Los Angeles 108-94 and Seattle nipped Atlanta 112-110.

Neal Walk and Clem Haskins combined for 50 points as the Suns rolled over Buffalo. Phoenix broke open the game with a 15-1 burst in the third period.

Billy Cunningham's basket with 52 seconds left enabled the 76ers to defeat New York. Cunningham, held in check most of the game, broke a 98-98 tie with his basket and then pulled down the final rebound as the Knicks attempted to tie the game. He finished with 12 points. Fred Foster led the 76ers with 24 points, 16 of them in the second period. Dave DeBusschere was high man for New York with 24.

Chet Walker scored 31 points and Bob Love added 24 to boost the Bulls over Houston. Chicago outscored the Rockets 34-16 in the third period to turn the game into a rout. Calvin Murphy led Houston with 28 points.

Jack Marin's 29-point effort lifted Baltimore past the Lakers and all but killed Los Angeles' chances of setting NBA records for most victories in a season and most victories at home. Jerry West's 25 points led the Lakers, who were held to their lowest output of the season.

Walt Bellamy's goaltending infraction with three seconds left on a field goal attempt by Lenny Wilkens provided the margin of victory for Seattle over the Hawks, Jim McDaniels then blocked Bellamy's last second shot to clinch the victory for the Sonics, moving them into a tie with Golden State for second in the Pacific Division.

Dan Issel's second season began against the Pittsburgh Condors. Too bad for the Condors.

The Kentucky Colonels' forward led his team to a 134-124 victory over Pittsburgh Sunday, scoring 39 points. The game was played just hours after a victory over Dallas which gave the Colonels the East Division championship in the American Basketball Association.

Members of the Colonels didn't get too excited over the title. They know they still have a month to play in the regular season—sort of a second season. For Issel, the year is three seasons long.

"We still must keep winning, first of all for our pride," Issel said after the Dallas game. "The playoffs are a whole different season. It's good we've got a whole month to prepare for them."

The Colonels know about that "different season." Last year they lost to Utah in the ABA championships. It was a seven-game series in which the home team won every contest.

"Heck, this was worth only a few hundred bucks," said Issel, who will share $5,000 with his teammates. "We're saving the noise for the big one—the playoffs."

Issel made too much noise for Pittsburgh as he scored 24 points in the first half. Teammate Artis Gilmore scored 20 points for Kentucky, which had a 32-point lead at halftime. Dave Lattin led Condors' scoring with 32 points while Bob Verga had 27 points.

Elsewhwere in the ABA, Denver defeated Memphis 137-129, Indiana topped Dallas 110-99, and New York beat Carolina 114-96.

Pari-Mutuel Clerks' Strike Closes Aqueduct for Today

NEW YORK (UPI)—A strike by pari-mutuel clerks will keep Aqueduct race track closed Monday.

The strike was announced early Sunday night after negotiations between the union and the New York Racing Association (NYRA) broke down over union demands for a rollback in scheduled manpower cuts at the Big A.

Andrew Squazzo, president of the Independent Association of Mutuel Employes, said 650 members of the union unanimously affirmed the strike decision at a meeting Sunday afternoon.

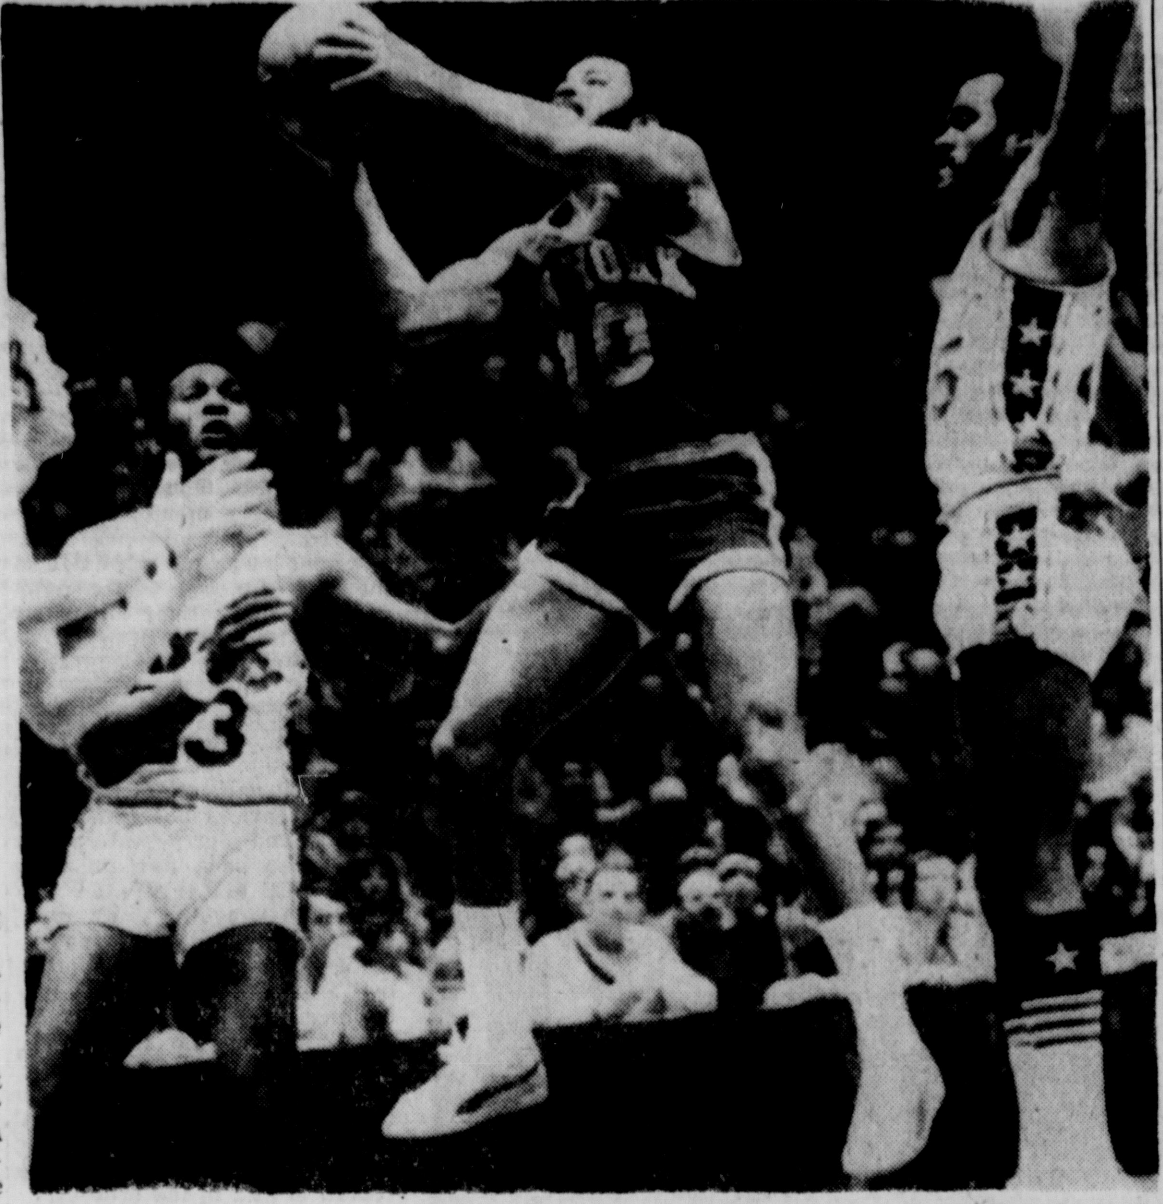
Squazzo said the NYRA planned to operate Aqueduct with 582 pari-mutuel clerks this season compared with 657 last year. The reduction in jobs, the union claims, was ordered by the NYRA allegedly because of decreased attendance which the NYRA blames on inroads made by the Off-Track Betting Corp. (OTB).

"In the face of continuing declines, the NYRA has been forced to cut back," said Frank M. Basil, president of the NYRA, in a statement released by an NYRA spokesman. "In the last of our negotiating sessions with the union Sunday, we offered to restore 31 jobs on certain conditions. The union demanded an increase of 75 jobs. The State Mediation Board notified the NYRA at 5:30 p.m. that the union was going on strike. We have notified the New York State Racing Commission and concerned parties of the union's regrettable decision."

Squazzo said the NYRA claimed it was unable to negotiate on a new contract unless it received a gaurantee of increased state aid to offset a decline in the daily handle at Aqueduct attributed to OTB.

"Strikes and all their attendant grief are bad enough," said Basil. "But this is inordinately grievous coming as it does, stop other severe problems threatening the survival of Aqueduct, Belmont Park and Saratoga. The NYRA cannot buy labor peace at the price of insolvency. We have done our best to avert this serious situation.

"The NYRA is deeply distressed over the stoppage of racing for its many thousands of loyal patrons. It is also distressed over the threatened livelihood and well being of racing employees plus the continuity of its position as the largest single producer of corporate revenue in the state of New York."



ROOM FOR TWO — New York's Walt Frazier (10) scores two points by finding shooting room between 76ers Bob Rule (R) and Bill Bridges in the second quarter in Philadelphia. (UPI)

Rangers' Brad Park At 20-Goal Plateau

By United Press International

Brad Park secured his position as the National Hockey League's second best defenseman Sunday night when he scored his 20th goal, making him only the third rearguard ever to reach that figure in a season.

The goal was one of six scored by the New York Rangers, who ran up their seventh consecutive victory by routing the Vancouver Canucks, 6-1. Two other players also reached the 20-goal plateau. Bobby Rousseau, who had only four goals all last season for Minnesota, scored twice to give him 21 and Walt Tkaczuk had one for his 20th goal.

By stretching their unbeaten string to 14 games, best of any team in the NHL this season, the Rangers also narrowed their deficit to seven points in the East Division behind the front-running Boston Bruins, who dropped a shocking 2-0 decision to the Los Angeles Kings.

In other games, the Minnesota North Stars edged the Chicago Black Hawks, 2-1, the Montreal Canadiens whipped the Philadelphia Flyers, 4-0, the Detroit Red Wings ripped the Pittsburgh Penguins, 6-3, and the St. Louis Blues beat the Buffalo Sabres, 6-2.

Gary Edwards of the Los Angeles Kings turned aside 38 shots to register his shutout in Boston behind first-period goals by Juha Widing and Ralph Backstrom. The loss was the first for the Bruins in their last 12 games and their first in Boston Garden since Nov. 7, a stretch of 25 games.

First period goals by J. P. Parise and Charlie Burns gave the North Stars their first victory over Chicago this season after five losses. Cesare Maniago had a shutout going for Minnesota until Cliff Koroll scored with 58 seconds left in the game.

Yvan Cournoyer scored three goals in the first period for his fourth career hat trick, more than enough for Montreal as goalie Ken Dryden turned in his eighth shutout of the season and second in as many days.

The victory left Montreal eight points behind New York, while Philadelphia dropped to fourth place in the West.

Mickey Redmond scored his 38th and 39th goals of the season to lift Detroit past Pittsburgh and back into a fourth place tie with idle Toronto in the East Division. The Penguins are sixth in the West, but still in strong playoff contention only four points behind third-place St. Louis.

Jack Egers and Phil Roberto scored two goals each for the Blues in their victory over Buffalo.

Skate Champions

HEERENVEEN, The Netherlands (UPI) —Atje Keulen-Deelstra, a Dutch mother of three children, Sunday captured the womens speedskating world championship for the second time in three years.

Mrs. Stien Baas-Kaiser, also of Holland and a former world champion, was second and Dianne Holum of Northbrook, Ill., was third.

Miller '500' To A. J. Foyt

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—A.J. Foyt, the tough Texan who made his reputation on the U.S. Auto Club trail, beat Nascar's best for his second win in the $208,000 Miller High Life 500 stock car race Sunday, finishing in front of Bobby Allison and Buddy Baker in a torrid duel on the last 45 laps.

Winner of the Daytona 500 last month, Foyt, 37, went into the lead to stay in his Wood Bros.-preapred 1971 Mercury with 15 laps to go after a final pit stop for gas by the top trio.

Allison, Hueytown, Ala., was runnerup in his '72 Chevy Monte Carlos 4.2 seconds back while Baker, the strapping son of the legendary Buck Baker from Charlotte, N.C., finished third in his STP '72 Dodge nine seconds behind Foyt.

Foyt, a three-time Indianapolis USAC champion, averaged 127.060 miles per hour around Ontario's 2.5 mile oval in his lightning-quick maroon and white Montego.

"It was a tough day," Foyt said. "It was a tossup who was going to get this one."

Foyt had a 15-second lead over Allison before Cecil Gordon of Horse Shoe, N.C., hit the turn four wall on the 149th lap and spun into the infield. He was unhurt but a yellow flag came out that enabled Allison and Baker to close in behind the leader.

When the green flag went back up on the 155th lap, Foyt, Allison and Baker began their thrilling duel to the finish.

Foyt had a narrow lead over Allison when he went into the pits for the last time for gas on the 183rd lap. Allison pitted on the next lap and Baker came in for the last time on the 185th.

When the top three drivers go back onto the track, Foyt was in front by 2.9 seconds and never relinquished his lead before the crowd of 68,498 in 80-degree weather.

"I was thrilled out there all day long," sayd Foyt, a hard-nosed competitor who says he likes it best when the racing is the toughest.

Richard Petty, Nascar's Golden Boy from Randelman, N.C. lost any chance of victory on a human error after pitting on the 131st lap for tires and gas. He was the leader up to that point.

After Petty went back on the track, he found out that his right rear wheel was not on tight and had to take it slowly before going back in the next time around. Petty, who wound up fourth, was a lap back when he got out again and never made the lap up.

Ironically, Petty had a shot at winning the first Miller High Life 500 but overshot his pits on his final stop a year ago and he had to make another circuit around the oval before pitting again.

Hank Kashiwa Upsets Sabich

ALTA, Utah (UI)—Hank Kashiwa, the former U. S. Olympic skier from Old Forge, N. Y., took an upset pro slalom victory over Spider Sabich Sunday at the International Ski Racers Association event at Snowbird Resort.

Sabich ran against Kashiwa in the first dual challenge elimination heat. Sabich was disqualified in one of the lower gates on the course and never made it to the quarter-finals.

Kashiwa, who joined the ISRA's American pro tour just after the Olympics, then faced down Billy Kidd and two other skiers to grab the $2,500 first prize.

The final heat was run by Kashiwa and Bill McKay of Aspen, Colo. McKay was disqualified but netted the $1,500 second prize. Third place went to Kurt Recher of the Hunter Mountain, N. Y. team and he pocketed $1,200.

K-Mart Winner

ROCHESTER, Mich. (UPI) —Kerry Melville of Australia captured the championship of the women's $15,000 K-Mart Invitation tennis tournament Sunday with a 6-3, 6-7, 7-6 upset of top-seeded Rosie Casals.

Racer Killed

Powell Takes $90,000, Torres Holding Out

By United Press International

Boog Powell and Joe Torre, a pair of slugging MVPs, found themselves dickering in the never-never land of baseball economics Sunday and reacted in different ways.

Powell, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1970, took the $90,000 from the Baltimore Orioles. Torre, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1971, said "no thanks" to the St. Louis Cardinals and is continuing to negotiate.

Powell, who was bidding to join baseball's $100,000 salary club, accepted the same amount he made last season after his 1970 MVP season. His signing left Merv Rettemund, who is trying for $50,000 against an offer of $42,000, as the only unsigned Oriole.

Torre, who turned in a .363-24-137 performance in batting average, homers and runs batted in last season, was offered a two-year contract for $130,000 in 1972 and $150,000 in 1973 but turned it down. His basic position is that he wants a three-year contract.

"I wasn't particularly interested in two years," said Torre. But when I asked about three years they weren't interested." Torre joined the Cardinals in 1969 as a catcher earning $60,000 a year.

In other camps: Outfielder Willie Montanez, the NL's runner-up in rookie of the year polling in 1971, signed with the Philadelphia Phillies for an estimated $27,500 . . . Steve Brye two-run single in the fourth inning enabled the Minnesota Twins to beat the Detroit Tigers, 2-1. Jim Perry also starred for the Twins, allowing one hit in three innings. . . . Frank Robinson delivered a sacrifice fly in the Los Angeles Dodgers' intra-squad game.

Paul Popovich and Frank Fernandez homered in the Chicago Cubs' intra-squad game . . . Willie McCovey, who was hobbled by bad knees in 1971, hit a homer as a pinch-hitter during the San Francisco Giants' intra-squad game . . Non roster catcher Peter Varey's homer off Mike Pazlik's 3-2 pitch leading off the sixth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

The Boston Red Sox scored one unearned run each off Dick Bosman. Paul Lindblad and Casey Cox to beat the Texas Rangers, 3-1 while Ray Culp checked the Rangers on two hits . . . Rusty Staub worked out for with the Montreal Expos for the first time after signing a one year contract for less than six figures. He had been seeking $100,000 a year for three years . . . Garry Jestadt and Jerry Morales each drove in two runs as the San Diego Padres scored an 11-2 triumph over the Mexico City Red Devils in Mexico City . . . Newly-acquired Denny McLain, one-time 31-game winner for the Detroit Tigers, has advised the Oakland Athletics that he will arrive in their Mesa, Ariz., camp today.

NCAA Playoffs Shaping Up

By United Press International

The NCAA basketball regional playoffs assumed a more definite shape as the result of weekend action.

East Regionals: Harry Litwak's Temple Owls, who won the Middle Atlantic Conference title with a 65-57 victory over St. Joseph's, will face sixth-ranked South Carolina, one of nine at-large entries in the tournament. The Gamecocks downed Clemson Saturday, 77-64.

Ivy League champion and fourth-ranked Penn, which beat Brown 37-33, will take on Providence while East Carolina, which clinched the Southern Conference crown by edging Furman 77-75, will meet Villanova.

Mid-East: The Mid-American Conference champion will be decided Tuesday at Bowling Green, Ohio in a playoff between Toledo and Ohio University, who tied for the conference lead during the regular season. Toledo squeaked by Kent State 59-57 and Ohio U. blasted Bowling Green 105-84.

The Toledo-Ohio U. winner will confront fifth-ranked Marquette, a 73-69 loser to New Mexico State Saturday.

The Ohio Valley Conference season wound up in a tangled web that one of three teams will have to unravel. Western Kentucky will challenge Morehead State on Tuesday, with the winner to play Eastern Kentucky on Wednesday. The eventual survivor will then play No. 11 Florida State, an 88-64 loser to an inspired Cincinnati team led by Derrek Dickey's 20 points.

Midwest Regional: Tenth-ranked Marshall and 12th-tabbed Southwestern Louisiana will tangle in a battle of at-large entries.

The Southwest Conference is another loop which must go to a playoff before its champion is decided. SMU faces Texas Tuesday night with the winner meeting 14th-ranked Houston in the regional. Both teams were victorious over the weekend, with SMU whipping Baylor 96-87 and Texas turning aside Texas Christian 72-65.

West Regionals: Weber State, the Big Sky kingpin goes against Hawaii, while No. 7 Brigham Young (WAC) and No. 8 Long Beach State (PCAA) duel in a battle of repeating conference champions. Long Beach completed its regular season with a record of 23-3. BYU split two games over the weekend, losing to Texas-El Paso 73-69 Friday night and edging New Mexico 61-60 Saturday.

Undecided Conference Champs

Drawing a first-round bye is UCLA, six-time champion of the Pacific-8 conference and seeking its sixth straight national championship. The Bruins (25-0) closed out their season with a 102-73 win over Stanford.

Conferences whose champion has not been decided as yet include the Southeastern, the Big Eight, the Atlantic Coast, the Big Ten, the Missouri Valley and the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Len Kosmalski scored 24 points Saturday night to help Tennessee maintain its SEC lead. The Vols can wrap up the conference crown with victories against Vanderbilt tonight and Kentucky on Thursday.

Kansas State has a one game lead over Missouri in the Big Eight with the two clashing on Tuesday. Both won Saturday, with Missouri having it the rougher of the two. The Tigers accomplished what no other Big Eight team had done this year—win at Nebraska. Missouri took the Huskers 61-54 while Kansas State trounced Colorado, 73-55.

Second-ranked North Carolina, behind the 23-point effort of Robert McAdoo, beat Duke 93-69 to clinch the ACC regular-season title as Maryland eliminated ninth-ranked Virginia from contention with a 45-42 victory. However, the Tar Heels must survive the ACC's own post-season tournament before qualifying for the NCAA showcase.

Minnesota has a one-game lead in the Big Ten, Memphis State clinched a share of the Missouri Valley crown by coming from 15 points behind in the final seven minutes to defeat Drake 70-69 and San Francisco has a one-game advantage over Santa Clara in the WCAC.

Duquesne's 6-foot-9 sophomore, Lionel Billingy scored 31 points and grabbed 23 rebounds Sunday to lead the 20th-ranked Dukes to an 82-72 victory over St. Francis (Pa.) and keep alive their hopes for a bid to the National Invitation tournament.

What's behind Volkswagen's new low price?

The Best Warranty This Side of a Rolls-Royce

You can't put a price on the warranty you get with a Volkswagen. You see, a Volkswagen warranty runs twice as long as anybody else's small car warranty. And only one car, the Rolls-Royce, has one better.

Here's how ours works: All you do is maintain the car according to the Volkswagen maintenance schedule. If any factory part is found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear on service items) any U.S. or Canadian VW dealer will repair or replace it free of charge. See your dealer for details.

More Than 5,000 Inspections Per Car

The story behind our warranty starts at the factory. Where 1,104 nit-picking inspectors have one job, and one job only. To find something wrong with a Volkswagen before that Volkswagen finds its way out of the factory.

Every one of the more than 5,000 parts that go into a VW is carefully examined. Some of them get the once-over two or three times. If one of our inspectors is unhappy with only one of the parts, the whole car gets pulled off the line. Sometimes we pull as many as 225 VWs a day. But it's worth it. We pick the lemons. You get the plums.

The Most Advanced Service System In The World

No other car maker anywhere can offer you Medi-car, Volkswagen's ultrasensitive Electronic Diagnosis. It's designed to spot problems in your Volkswagen when they're at the minor adjustment stage. Long before they can do any real damage to your car or your wallet. Every one of our dealers has VW Diagnosis. And you get the first four check-ups free with a new VW.

The Highest Resale Value

Based on what's happened in the past, no other economy car on the road holds its value after 3 or 4 years as well as a Volkswagen.† So, if you're thinking about buying a new car, think about what it's going to be worth when it's an old car. Because when the time comes to part company with your VW, you won't be left holding the bag.

Unless that's what you carry your money in.

The Most Highly Developed Car Ever Built

Economy cars come and go. Volkswagens just keep going. One reason is our 1600cc aluminum-magnesium engine. It's rear-mounted for better traction on slick roads. And it's air-cooled for better performance in heat waves or cold spells. The underside of the Beetle has a steel, sealed bottom to protect its vital parts. The outside of the Volkswagen carries 13 pounds of paint. The body of the car is put together so precisely that it's practically airtight. In all, more than 2200 changes and advances have gone into today's Beetle. And most of them were designed to make the car run better and last longer. Not just look different.

No other car maker has put so much time and so many advances and changes into one car. You see, there's more to a Volkswagen than meets the eye.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There are opportunities to plan with energy, cleverness and resourcefulness a course of action that will enable you to arganize conditions as you would like them. Then do the actual work required to set them in motion immediately.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Use a more modern approach for success in activities you feel are ideal. Making new contacts is good, since you understand others much better now. Delve into civic matters, too.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Sit down with experts and advisers as well as associates and discuss new aims you have that have every promise of success. You will get support for them from all, including your mate. Relax and have fun tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what your true position is with associates and then confer with a bigwig who can be most helpful to you and your aims. If others are unfriendly, try to get at the cause. Then take right steps to clear up.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) There is no better way to come to a real understanding with a new associate than to work together right away. Find the best method of getting rid of any tiredness you feel. Show you have much vitality.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Talk over with experts some fine new ideas you have which merely require pointers to make them successful. Out to the fun places with congenials later that relieve tensions. Show you are a fine conversationalist.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find out at home what those who dwell with you have in mind and then you can join forces with good results. Get busy making your abode more attractive and clean. Show a pride of possession.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can now be with congenials, so do not waste time in contacting them early to make appointments. If you need any professional services, get them. Stay within your budget and all is fine for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy with financial affairs early and then set aside a certain amount of money for the kind of entertainments you most enjoy. Plan how to improve property you have in some way. Investigate some new hobby that looks interesting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan just how to get ahead faster with the social side of life is concerned and make the right contacts tonight. You are thinking very clearly and can sway others to help you gain your aims. This is particularly true of friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Making new plans for the future so you become more affluent is fine, provided you do not confide in others. You have the right slant on how to make mate happier this evening. Put a smile where that frown is.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Getting together with persons of same aims and ideas as your own can lead to formulating fine plans for the future. Discuss money with an adviser and get right suggestions. Then put practical affairs in better order.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handling those affairs that improve your public image is wise early in the day. Show others you are a most charming person. You need to get into the civic work with great interest and vim.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those very energetic young people who must have the right guidance early where sports and other activities are concerned, or the self-control needed here will not be gained, especially if the companions are the wrong kind. A certain amount of religious training is important early, also. Any profession that requires both idealism and practicality is fine.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams'
TEEN FORUM

TERMINOLOGY: (Q.) What does "going steady" mean? Black brothers don't say "Will you go steady with me?" or "This is my steady girl." They say "Will you be my girl (or woman)?" or "Can I have a chance?"

When they say "This is my girl friend," this means that she has no other dude rapping to her except her boy friend. Is this what going steady means, and if so why are you so much against it?—A Black Sister in Washington, D.C.

(A.) I think the meaning is basically the same. It is just the terminology that is different. "Going steady" means that a boy and a girl date only each other and that the girl can expect the boy to take her not only on routine dates but to events such as parties, dances, games, church, etc., that both of them normally go to.

It does not mean they are not free to talk to or be friendly with other boys or girls. It recognizes that at any time either or both want to drop the arrangement they are free to do so by talking it over and agreeing to end it.

In many cases I do not take a strong stand against going steady. For some it is good, for some it isn't. I do think a boy or girl who dates a number of others instead of just one is better prepared for adult life, whether or not it includes marriage. By having contact with more people, they know more about people, including themselves. That is important.

LOOKING OLDER: (Q.) I have a round baby face and am only five feet tall. I am 13 but everybody thinks I'm 11. How can I look older?—Not a Child in Kansas.

(A.) A short, curly shag hair style may be your answer. This is particularly true if you are now wearing your hair long and straight. Worn that way it makes you look shorter and younger.

To be sure, go to a good stylist and ask her to advise you.

Worthwhile Week on TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The upcoming week can be a worthwhile one for selective television watchers, with the networks offering entertainment that features classic show business works and documentaries of topical significant news.

Tonight, for example, the non-commercial network's "Hollywood Television Theatre" will present the late Clifford Odets' famous 1935 play, "Awake and Sing" which helped stamp him as a powerful American writer for the stage. Walter Matthau is in tonight's production, which will be seen on the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS).

Tuesday, meanwhile, NBC-TV will offer yet another rerun of the 1939 children's movie classic, "The Wizard of Oz." with Judy Garland, Ray Bolger, Jack Haley, Bert Lahr, Frank Morgan, Billie Burke and Margeret Hamilton. The same day, the "Today" show, on NBC-TV, will be heavily devoted to New Hampshire primary coverage, and a prime time half-hour program on the same subject will be presented on CBS-TV.

Wednesday night, a regular segment of the Carol Burnett hour on CBS-TV might well turn out to be more than routine when she is joined by two engaging showmen, Tony Randall and Jack Klugman, the stars of ABC-TV's "The Odd Couple" series, for a musical-comedy salute to Broadway.

On Thursday night, CBS-TV presents one of the most awaited hours of the season: "Will Rogers' U.S.A.," in which actor James Whitmore, with no makeup and few props, is seen in a condensed version of his acclaimed one-man show as the legendary American humorist. Whitmore used Rogers' spoken and written words, and the television show was taped recently at the Mark Taper Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center.

Also Thursday night, CBS-TV will have a one-hour documentary on the political and personal aspects of the explosive busing issue. The hour simply titled "Busing" focuses on Pontiac, Mich., Richmond, Va., and Pasadena, Calif., and considers the controversy as an election issue.

Another CBS-TV hour Thursday night, "00 Days to Survival," re-created John Wesley Powell's 1869 exploration of the then unexplored Green and Colorado Rivers, and astronaut Wally Schirra is one of the guides, sharing the task with the Smithsonian Institution's Dr. Don Fowler.

Friday night, the non-commercial PBS network's "Film Odyssey" series offers the famous Jean Renoir movie, "The Rules of the Game." and the same night, CBS-TV will rerun, from earlier this season, an effective 90-minute teleplay, "Goodbye, Raggedy Ann," with Mia Farrow as a young Hollywood actress driven to near suicide by her struggle for stardom, and Hal Holbrook as a none-too-successful writer she leans on.

Next Sunday afternoon, NBC-TV will show us a two-hour filmed version of the ballet performed recently in Peking for President and Mrs. Nixon, "The Red Detachment of Women," with Gene Kelly as the host-narrator. That night, and next Monday, we will get a two-part presentation, on ABC-TV, of the movie version of Joseph Conrad's "Lord Jim," starring Peter O'Toole, James Mason, Curt Jurgens, Eli Wallach, Paul Lukas, Jack Hawkins and Akim Tamiroff.

Also next Monday night, NBC-TV has a variety hour entitled "Johnny Carson Presents Sun City Scandals '72" which features veteran entertainment such as Bette Davis (making her video singing debut), Eddie Foy Jr., Beatrice Kay, Ethel Waters, Jerry Colonna, Gene Sheldon and Jack Oakie.

Bad Signal, Defense Loses

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "West was an expert. East a good player. That is the sort of partnership that is not likely to slop the defense but this time it managed to let South steal a no-trump game. West opened the queen of spades. East held back his ace because he did not want the suit to block. At the same time he singalled strength by dropping the six."

Jim: "That is the sort of play that seems fine to almost everyone but it violated one of the most important principles of defensive play with is to signal with the highest card you can spare. He should have played the seven."

Oswald: "If West hadn't been an expert it would not have hurt. Now let's see what happened. South took the trick with his king and played two rounds of clubs. East discarded a diamond so South shifted to that suit. East hopped on with his ace and led back the three of spades. South played the nine. West was in with the 10 and led the heart deuce and disastrous results."

Jim: "West really should have played out his jack of spades on the theory that the heart shift was hopeless but experts go wrong on occasion and when they do go wrong they are inclined to go that way with a real bang. His excuse was that he had never seen the seven spot. Hence either South was false-carding or East wasn't strong enough to set the hand with spades.

Albany Air Crash...Trouble Apparently Came Fast

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Whatever type of in-flight emergency occurred aboard Mohawk Airlines Flight 405, the trouble came so fast the crew apparently had no time to notify passengers before the plane crashed into a residential section of Albany, hitting a house and killing 17 persons.

"There was no announcement at all from any of the airline personnel," Robert Snyder, one of the survivors, said from his bed at St. Peter's Hospital Sunday. "I think some of the people may not have had their seat belts fastened."

The twin-engine FH227 turboprop, on a flight from New York City with 45 passengers and a crew of three, crashed 3½ miles short of Albany County Airport Friday night, burrowing under a two - story house. One occupant of the house and 16 passengers died.

While not releasing details of its interviews with the survivors, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board said most passengers were unaware anything was wrong.

The spokesman said it would probably take two or three days for a wrecking crew to cut through the roof of the house and remove debris so federal investigators could reach vital parts of the plane. The cockpit nosed through the house and came to rest in the back yard, leaving much of the fuselage under the collapsed building.

Two vital instruments -- the cockpit voice recorder and the flight data recorder -- were recovered intact and shipped to Washington for study. The spokesman said the quality on the voice recorder was "good" and should provide "useful information" as to problems aboard the craft.

A minute or two before impact, Pilot Robert McAdam of South Hempstead radioed the airport tower that he had "feathered" the left engine. He apparently cut the engines and shut down electrical power prior to impact, averting the threat of an explosion which could have claimed more lives.

Whatever happened, a spokesman for Mohawk said, "there probably wasn't time" for other emergency procedures -- but he said the seat belt sign normally would have been on that close to landing.

Snyder, a 28-year-old salesman from Houston, Tex., was one of 36 persons hospitalized as a result of the accident. Seven of the injured remained in serious to critical condition at area hospitals.

At St. Peter's, Snyder, a salesman for Celanese Corp., who was at a six-week training course in New York City, said he was en route to see his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Snyder, in Amsterdam, N.Y., when the crash occurred.

"The guy next to me noted the landing gear had been down, but they pulled it up again," he said. "We started coming in very low over the houses. We made a sharp bank to the left and a second after that we crashed.

"We didn't know one engine was out," he said. "The only thing I noted was the speed decreased, and there was a sharp drop after that. I think that was the first engine going out."

Snyder, a dark-haired bachelor, had a cut on his left cheek and a cast on his left leg, but talked easily to a half dozen newsmen and one TV camera.

He said from his position, riding backwards in the plane's mid-section, he did not know what stewardess Sandy Segar of New York City was doing before the crash.

She was in fair condition in St. Peter's intensive care unit.

"Right after the crash, I knew that I was all right, and I was worried about a fire," Snyder said. "My left foot was pinned and my right arm was pinned, and the gal right across from me was trying to get her husband to respond."

He said he was a "white-knuckled" flier about once a week on business, and intended to fly again.

"I'll probably have to do it soon," he said, "because the longer I wait, the worse it will be."

The death toll included eight General Electric executives at GE plants in nearby Schenectady and Pittsfield, Mass., and the wife of a ninth company official.

Nixon Seeks Improvement Instead of Busing Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will not endorse a constitutional amendment to end busing, it was learned today. Instead, he probably will ask Congress for a moratorium on new court-ordered busing, and propose legislation to ensure quality education for every school shild.

The cabinet-level committee which Nixon asked for a policy recommendation on the forced busing issue was expected to offer its advice soon, possibly this week. Nixon called the panel to the White House today, along with top black officials within the administration, to discuss the question.

But sources close to the committee said this much was clear: Nixon will not choose the Constitutional amendment route. Not only have the committee members—former Attorney General John N. Mitchell; Elliot L. Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; and Budget Director George P. Shultz—publicly opposed that route, but the amendment idea still lacks the two-thirds support it would need to clear the House and Senate.

The cabinet committee plans to recommend, and Nixon likely will request, that legislation be offered to attack the problem by eliminating educational inequities which have prompted courts to order black children and whites bused to other schools.

In the meantime, it would propose a moratorium on new busing decrees from the courts.

By itself, the moratorium idea likely would be defeated in the Senate, where a strong antibusing proposal offered by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., died last week. When tied to an education-improvement proposal, it might win strong election year support, especially since it would offer a chance to lower the busing issue temperature while Congress attacks the root of the question.

It could not be learned immediately just how it may be proposed that Congress persuade—or force—the courts to respect a moratorium on new busing orders.

Gallup Poll Cites Opposition

NEW YORK (UPI)—Almost two-thirds of all Americans favor school desegregation, but even more —69 per cent — oppose compulsory busing to achieve racial balance, a Gallup Poll published today in Newsweek magazine indicates.

"Opposition to racial busing cuts across geographic, economic and — to a surprising extent — even across racial lines, according to the telephone survey of a national cross section of 548 adults," the Newsweek article reported.

Sixty-eight per cent of Northern whites and 74 per cent of Southern whites are opposed to compulsory busing, Newsweek said. And nearly half the blacks sampled were against such busing, the magazine reported, although it said there were too few blacks surveyed to provide a reliable statistical sampling.

Of all persons opposed to busing, "fully three-fifths . . . based their stand on the importance of the neighborhood school," Newsweek reported.

The poll indicated that 20 per cent of those sampled favored busing and 11 per cent had no opinion.

Newsweek said the poll figures show "a continuing trend toward acceptance of desegregation, especially in the South."

"Among Southern whites, 58 per cent favored the idea, compared with 68 per cent in the North," Newsweek said. "Interestingly, in white households with children under 18, those most directly concerned with the problem, fully 70 per cent favor desegregation."

The poll found that 24 per cent of the survey disagreed with school desegregation and 10 percent had no opinion, Newsweek said.

Father Charged In Family Deaths

NYACK, N.Y. (UPI)—Murder charges were brought against Charles Johnson Jr., 34, for allegedly setting the fire in his home Saturday which claimed the lives of his wife and two small children, police said.

Johnson was held without bail in the Rockland County Jail Sunday after Ella Johnson, 31, Charles, 3, and Charlene, 4, perished when flames swept the three - story building in which they lived.

A policeman rescued two other children. Another occupant of the Main Street building, Thomas May, was treated for burns at Nyack Hospital and later released.

Johnson was taken into custody at the scene of the fire.

Train Derails Near Selkirk

SELKIRK, N. Y. (UPI)—Nine cars of a 95 - car northbound Penn Central freight train derailed near this Albany County community Saturday, state police said.

No injuries resulted as the cars, many of them carrying grain and corn, jumped the tracks at the Beaver Dam Road crossing, spilling their contents over the area.
